HOOVER URGES BIG JOB-AID FUND
DAVIS TAKES SEAT IN SENATE

Today

Congress, Once More.
Russia, Busy, Wise.
We Talk Well.
Lo, the Poor Railroad.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE

CONGRESS IS at work, with a big shadow on the wall labeled Muscle Shoals. Senator Norris, who wears no corporation harness, thinks a water power built with the people's money should be used for the people's benefit. That doesn't suit modern corporation government. Senator Norris probably will be disappointed.

THE ADMINISTRATION proposes to push the country into the World Court, without having said anything convincing as to the defects of our own Supreme Court, or what control or guidance we need from Europe.

Senator Borah and a few other men of conviction may postpone that proceeding a little.

DR. WILSON, general secretary of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church, objects to the reapportionment plan.

He wants to change the constitutional provision that the number of congressmen should depend on the number of people represented.

RUSSIA RESENTS the statement that eight expert engineers, confessing high treason, and implicating members of the British and French government, made their confession "after torture."

Britain and France, on the other hand, are indignant that Russian witnesses should accuse high officials of those countries of conspiring to overthrow the Russian government.

High officials are not such fools, and Russia, at this stage, would probably not torture witnesses, although the czars did it.

THERE IS foolishness in the world's ideas of Russia, and, especially, in the supercilious attitude of some financiers.

Our government publishes names of the concerns that have been engaged with Russia in her marvelous industrial development and transformation under the five-year plan.

They are the DuPont Company, the General Electric Company, the Henry Ford Company, and others of the greatest industrial organizations in the United States. Could Russia show greater intelligence than in selecting them? Don't underestimate Russia, whatever you think of her ideas. She may do to western industry what Mohammed almost did to western civilization and religion.

AN "EMERGENCY committee for federal public works" emerges to remark that the depression is costing us $12,000,000,000 a year, and that use of our "war time technique" would turn that to gain.

Let's hope it wouldn't include the war time technique that spent a billion dollars on airships that wouldn't fly, and more than a billion on floating ships that never went to sea and couldn't be given away when the war was over.

THAT "EMERGENCY committee" suggests spending a billion in removal of slums and vicious tenements among other things. That good suggestion will probably remain a suggestion. We are better at talking than we are at doing.

Meanwhile, the British, without talking about billions, actually propose to spend $125,000,000 to wipe out London slums.

RAILROADS DEMAND "sweeping relief from competition." They would like to "curb" pipe lines now pumping oil once carried in railroad tank cars by railroads.

They would make the oil companies get rid of their $400,000,000 investment and would check coastwise shipping and canal freights. These things and others they DEMAND.

WHAT THEY NEED is to bring their own methods up to date, stop hauling heavy trains weighing upwards of 1,000,000 pounds, to carry 10,000 pounds of passengers to the last two or three stations.

Railroads have suffered, their passenger traffic has been cut almost in half, and whatever hurts railroads hurts the country.

The railroads will not find a remedy for their troubles in forbidding other business enterprises to employ modern methods. There is a limit to paternalism, even where important public utilities are concerned.

STALIN, STRANGE, powerful creature, absolute dictator of Russia, who lives on two or three thousand dollars a year and spends billions on industry, analyzes European conditions thus: He says war is coming surely. The strong powers "will crush the weaker. When the weak ones are eliminated the big ones will fight each other."

That's what happens when you put big and little spiders into a bottle. First the big ones eat the little ones, then the big ones eat each other. Then there is one very big fat spider left.

FLIER FOUND, TELLS OWN STORY

Compass Bad, Gas Supply Low, Mrs. Keith-Miller in Panic, Lands in Bahamas

Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, who was forced down in the Bahamas during a flight from Havana to Miami, on the first leg of her return trip to Pittsburgh, left Nassau this afternoon for Miami by plane.

Mrs. Keith-Miller, who had been given up for dead until last night, when she arrived at Nassau from Andros Island, where she landed Friday, blamed a terrific gale for her mishap.

Aviators in Miami were puzzled by the fact that she had been blown east instead of west, but she explained to the Associated Press that she had feared being driven far into the Gulf of Mexico and had pointed her plane almost due east, and away from Miami. Later, she said, she became panicky when the gas ran low, and when she landed on the island she thought it was Florida.

FLIER'S OWN STORY

In an interview obtained by the Havana correspondent of the Associated Press by wireless from Nassau, the aviatrix said:

"A terrific gale blew me off my course somewhere between Havana and the mainland. Then my compass went haywire and I flew seven hours looking for a place to land.

BECOMES PANICKY

"The gas began to run low and I got panicky. I didn't know whether I was in the Gulf of Mexico or somewhere over the Atlantic. It was a fearful relief when I did see a spot of land. I thought it was Florida.

"But it was this village called Kemps Bay on Andros Island. There was a terrific wind, but I came in with full motor, then stalled her and pancaked into the thick bushes. I looked the ship over and it was O. K.

WALKS 16 MILES

"I started out to walk and it was 16 miles to the first telegraph station I came to. I walked all night over the rockiest beach I ever saw. My feet were blistered and I was mighty tired. I am sorry I can't send you more."

That last reference was to the telegram by which the interview was obtained. The aviatrix sent it by wireless from Nassau to Miami and it went thence by cable to the Associated Press Bureau at Havana.

RAIN OR SNOW, COLD WANES

Warmer weather with light snow or rain predicted for tomorrow was expected to break the second cold wave which gripped the Pittsburgh district in less than a week and dropped the mercury to 8 early today.

The temperature rose to the 20s this afternoon. It will fall again tonight to around 15, according to the official forecast.

Forecaster W. S. Brotzman reported a low mark of 4 at his home in Brookside Farms, near Mt. Lebanon, this morning. Other outlying points reported near-zero temperatures.

Wet snow falling on streets and roads late yesterday was quickly frozen as the weather turned suddenly colder, making the way

EINSTEIN SAILS FOR AMERICA

ANTWERP, Belgium, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Prof. Albert Einstein and Frau Einstein left here at noon aboard the liner Belgenland for the United States, where they will visit with friends.

Nobody saw them off except a handful of newspapermen and the German consul, who was at the dock with a bouquet for Frau Einstein. The scientist's wife said:

"I hope this trip will make him feel better. He looks so pale. He never takes enough rest. I'm glad he decided to take this holiday."

Somebody told Prof. Einstein that there was a radiophone aboard the ship so that he might talk with friends on either side of the ocean whenever he felt like it.

He shook his head and replied:

"I hope these journalists are not going to call me up in the middle of the ocean and ask me how I slept the night before."

Priest Calls Masons to Aid Soldier Accused in Death

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Defense counsel has disclosed that a Catholic priest's appeals to Masons helped in raising a $2,000 defense fund for Maj. Charles A. Shepard, Army Medical officer, who goes to trial in Federal Court here Thursday, charged with the poison murder of his second wife, Mrs. Zenana Shepard.

Harry S. Class, of Denver, chief defense counsel, said more than 300 persons all over the United States had contributed.

After a conference with Class, The Rev. J. H. O'Neill, Catholic priest and Army chaplain stationed in Fitzsimmons General Hospital, Denver, where Maj. Shepard has worked while at liberty on bond, sent letters to Masons, saying:

"An appeal addressed from a Catholic priest to a Mason is rather unusual, but not without precedent. Like most Army officers, Maj. Shepard's funds are very low. His brother officers are helping him to the limit of their abilities. I am making this appeal to you, a Mason, without Maj. Shepard's knowledge or consent."

Miss Grace Brandon, pretty 22-year-old San Antonio stenographer, will be called as a witness for the prosecution which contended Shepard's infatuation for the girl supplied the motive for the alleged poisoning of Mrs. Shepard at Fort Riley, Kan., in June, 1929.

NYE FAILS TO BLOCK OATH

Vote Defeats Motion Barring Pennsylvanian; Issue May Be Taken Up Again

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON, International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—James J. Davis, whose resignation as Secretary of Labor became effective today, was sworn in as United States Senator from Pennsylvania shortly after noon today, despite an effort to prevent his being sworn because of expenditures made in the Pennsylvania primary last May.

The effort to keep Davis from being sworn was made by Senator Gerald P. Nye (Rep.), of North Dakota, chairman of the Senate committee which investigated the expenditures. It was a short-lived effort, for Davis took the oath within a comparatively few minutes after Nye had moved that "The Senator-elect from Pennsylvania stand aside."

NYE MOTION REJECTED

The Senate first rejected a resolution sponsored by Senator Nye, barring Davis from the oath. Then the Pennsylvanian without further ado was sworn into the seat which was denied William S. Vare two years ago.

The vote on the Nye resolution denying Davis the oath was 27 to 58.

Nineteen Democrats joined with 40 Republicans in supporting Davis' right to the oath. This Democratic support was due to a decision reached earlier by the Democratic Steering Committee that the minority leaders would not oppose the seating of Davis.

DAVIS LISTENS IN

Davis was an attentive listener to the proceedings. He sat in the rear of the chamber, first as Senator Davis A. Reed, his Pennsylvania colleague, announced his readiness to take the oath and later as Nye attacked his right to

Congress Meets And Another Riot Goes On Outside

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Police were courteous. As they cracked Reds over the head, they said:

"Please be seated."

Speaker Nick Longworth made a speech to the Communists:

"Don't fight outside like ruffians.

"Come inside and fight like gentlemen."

No congressmen got into the hit-and-run session.

Politics is not an outdoor sport.

Communists lost this game. But threaten to come back with the Southern California line and the Notre Dame backfield.

Policeman got excited and fired his revolver. He must have thought he was home.

The voting at the end was unanimous for law and order.

All the Reds had bolted the party.

Congress and the President

What makes the President think that Congress will not act with proper expedition?

It is not Congress that has been indulging in a lot of futile talk unaccompanied by action of any useful kind.

It is not Congress that has been appointing a lot of alibi commissions to consume time and avoid achievement.

It is not Congress that has been devoting the major part of its time and attention to trying to get the United States into foreign entanglements when domestic problems were crying for solution.

Congress is not responsible for the bad times.

The only complaint about Congress is that it has been too much under the thumb of the Executive.

Congress has been bullied, misled, and, in such vital matters as the British naval treaty, even actually deceived.

If the Executive will let Congress alone it will attend to American affairs with customary American speed.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

PINCHOT WORKS ON CABINET

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Gifford Pinchot, who becomes governor of Pennsylvania for the second time on January 20, is back on the job today. He arrived here last night from his home in Milford, where he had been spending a few days after returning from a vacation.

The governor-elect is expected to immediately plunge into the work of selecting his cabinet, meeting members of the Legislature, and otherwise preparing for his coming administration of the state's affairs.

The first public statement Pinchot made was that he would make his own announcements regarding plans and appointments without the aid of others, explaining:

"The favorite indoor sport of predicting just what the incoming governor is going to do is, I observe, in full swing. It is a pleasant game, but it doesn't mean anything.

"Statements and announcements as to my plans, program, policies and appointments have been, are, and will continue to be mere irresponsible guesses and nothing else, unless they are made by me."

CITY TO PUSH CANAL FIGHT

Concerted action in Washington to force the Ohio River-Erie canal project before congressional members for a definite decision was planned by the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce harbor committee today at a meeting with civic, industrial and river leaders.

A delegation of at least 25 representatives was pledged to appear in the national capital next week for three conferences.

While the fight for approval of the canal project will be presented before the River and Harbor Congress meeting Monday and Tuesday, arrangements were to be made for a conference of interests here and Youngstown and West Virginia delegates with senators and congressmen from the Tri-state district on Tuesday.

Likewise, a meeting was to be arranged with the War Department engineers to determine the exact status of the project. President of City Council John Herron announced the city would be represented by Public Works Director Edward G. Lang and Councilmen William English, George J. Kambach and Clifford B. Connelly.

Peoples Trust Votes Extra Stock Dividend

The Peoples Pittsburgh Trust Company today declared a 2½ per cent stock dividend payable December 23 to stockholders of record December 17. Based on present market values, this is equivalent to a disbursement of approximately $790,000. In addition to the extra stock dividend, the regular cash dividend of 4 per cent will be paid on January 2 to stockholders of record December 16. According to A. C. Robinson, president of the institution, the extra stock dividend is justified by the year's earnings.

PROSPERITY RETURNING, HE SAYS

Message Sent to Congress: Asks Trust Law Revision And Deportation Action

By WILLIAM P. FLYTHE, Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—President Hoover told Congress in his annual message today that prosperity is returning. He urged vast appropriations for public works to relieve unemployment.

He spoke with supreme confidence when he said the nation had arisen to the emergency and that practically three-quarters of a billion dollars more is being expended in the current year than in 1929 in construction alone.

While urging every possible economy, to avoid the discontinuance of the 1 per cent tax reduction and possible tax increase, he outlined an elaborate program of construction. He frankly said there would be a deficit of $900,000,000 in the treasury, but he believed this could be offset through treasury financing.

Urges Deportation

The President urged the enactment of the most drastic laws for the deportation of alien criminals, as well as the deportation of aliens who had gained entrance to the country illegally. He made no recommendations on prohibition; in fact, the word appeared only once in the message.

He said he had approved a building program designed to bring the American Navy up to the limits authorized by the London naval armaments treaty and that a special report would be laid before the Senate and House by the Navy Department. It is planned, he said, to begin work on as many modern warships as possible.

The President also recommended the creation of a special commission to study a revision of the anti-trust laws and legislation to expedite the consolidation of railways. He urged Congress to complete important legislation now pending.

Legislative Program

He said:

"The Congress has before it legislation partially completed in the last sitting in respect to Muscle Shoals, bus regulation, relief of congestion in the courts, reorganization of the border patrol in prevention of smuggling, law enforcement and other subjects. It is desirable that these measures should be completed."

He added that should it be impossible to do so at this session,

'Phone Company to Spend $21,894,000 Here

Western Pennsylvania's share in telephone development during the next three years will reach $38,177,000, with Pittsburgh receiving $21,894,000 of the expenditures.

The program was revealed today by Philip C. Staples, of Philadelphia, operating vice president of the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania, in an address before several hundred business men at a luncheon in the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce auditorium. Howard Heinz, president of the H. J. Heinz Company, presided.

Asserting that prosperity is around the corner, Mr. Staples said:

"Industry is in the saddle; it supplies the money that makes prosperity. Through mass production the country has been stampeded, and industry can revive it with the effort.

"The business development program for the year just closing locally meant $14,229,000 expenditures for new buildings and their equipment. During the next three years we will spend as follows: In 1931, for Pittsburgh, $7,402,000, and Western Pennsylvania, $4,817,000; the following year Pittsburgh development will require $7,150,000, and Western Pennsylvania, $5,712,000. Pittsburgh's 1933 share will be $7,342,000, while Western Pennsylvania's investment will be $5,754,000."

DRASTIC ELECTION LAW CHANGES PROPOSED IN STATE

ASSISTANCE IN VOTING OPPOSED

Permanent Registration in All Districts Suggested; Conference in Session

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 2.—Drastic election law changes, including the codifying of certain present laws, together with six constitutional amendments and seven new bills, were recommended to the Pennsylvania Election Law Reform Conference, meeting here today. The most startling of these included:

1—Formation of county boards of elections, to relieve county commissioners and registration commissioners of their election and registration powers.

2—Permanent personal registration for all cities, boroughs and townships to supplant annual registration. Abolishment of assistance to voters except under certain conditions.

3—Extending hours of voting from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m.

4—Changing by constitutional amendment the uniformity acts to permit municipal divisions to pass on legislation affecting their own localities.

5—Making county offices elective or appointive, as provided by legislature.

These recommendations were in the form of a report to the conference on April 10 last by the continuing committee of the conference, representative of 26 state and city organizations interested in clean elections. Alexander P. Lindsay, of Pittsburgh, chairman of the conference presided.

The continuing committee, which made an intensive study of the existing laws and of a host of proposed improvements, consists of Senator Frank J. Harris, of Allegheny County; Vance C. McCormick, member of the executive committee of the Pennsylvania Elections Association; Miss Gertrude Ely, chairman of the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters; Mrs. S. Blair Luckie legislative chairman of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women; William A. Schnader, Benjamin H. Ludlow, members of the executive committee of the Pennsylvania Elections Association; Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence of the State Council of Republican Women; John O. Miller, a director of Pennsylvania League of Women Voters; Mrs. Morris Wolf, Jenkins Park; Mrs. Q. W. Herring, of Pittsburgh, secretary of the conference; Charles M. Howell, of Lancaster, former Democratic member of the State House of Representatives; Thomas J. Walker, secretary of the Committee of Seventy, and Chairman Lindsay.

6TH HELD AFTER FATAL PARTY

GARY, Ind., Dec. 2.—(INS.)—Carl M. Johnson, arraigned as an accessory to the wine party murder of pretty 18-year-old Arlene Draves, was held in bonds of $100,000 today. Johnson is charged with having sold the liquor which resulted in the attack and death of Miss Draves.

At an inquest into the high school graduate's death five prominent youths of Gary were held to the grand jury without bail on charges of first degree murder. The youths had confessed attacking the girl during the party, police charged.

Johnson must suffer the same penalty as the five youths, Prosecutor Oliver Starr said. The death penalty can be meted out in case of conviction, Starr said.

SHOPPING — By Quin Hall

WARNING GIVEN SHOPLIFTERS

With the advent of the Christmas shopping season, Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court, disposing of two shoplifting cases, declared today he will deal severely with any person charged with larceny from stores at this time.

After fining one woman $50, and another woman and a man, $25 each, Rothenberg said:

"I don't care whether you are out of work. At this time of the year, when the stores are crowded, too many people take advantage of shopkeepers, with the hope that they will get off because of the occasion.

"Everybody is filled with the Christmas spirit, but it will be my duty to deal harshly with anyone brought before me for shoplifting."

Mrs. Wanda Knowlson, 21, of Bridgeville, the first prisoner, accused of pilfering $32 worth of woman's and infant's clothing, was fined $50.

Mrs. Ella Coghlan, 45, and John McMiller, 50, a roomer in her boarding house at 1580 Federal street, were fined $25 each after detectives said they took $12 worth of merchandise from a department store.

Hoover Mentions Prohibition Only Once

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(INS.)—The word "prohibition" was mentioned just once in President Hoover's annual message to Congress today—and even then it was not linked up with any recommendation on the subject.

In the course of reviewing the accomplishments of the Seventy-first Congress, now in its final session, the President merely mentioned as one of the achievements "the strengthening of prohibition enforcement activities in the Department of Justice."

RED PLOTTERS TELL OF GRAFT IN RUSSIA

Rakeoff Collected Over Purchase of Machinery; U. S. Concerns Involved

MOSCOW, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—The itching palm of political graft stretches out even in Soviet Russia, one of the eight men on trial for treason here testified today. Said M. Kuprianov, one of the defendants:

"Bribery and graft are second nature of the engineers with whom I worked in this plot to overthrow the government. The Industrial party group with which I was associated got 50,000 rubles in one year as a rakeoff from foreign concerns in a purchase of cotton machinery."

He was lead into this statement in a cross-examination by the prosecutor, who continues to grill these eight men long after they have confessed every detail of the charges against them.

NONE IN "OLD DAYS"

Kuprianov added:

"In the old days the engineers never got any of the graft. The higher-ups collected that before it trickled down that far."

The spectators in the crowded courtroom burst into laughter at this admission, and even the judges looked at each other and smiled.

GRAFT FROM U. S. A.

Much of the graft, Kuprianov said, came from American firms, and there was a system by which White Russians abroad got 1 per cent and the Anti-Soviet engineers at home collected one-fourth of the payments.

It developed today that four Russian emigres arrested yesterday at Minsk had nothing to do with the elaborate plot which is the subject of this trial, but were held merely on suspicion of counter-revolutionary activities which, apparetnly, were of minor importance.

hazardous for autoists. Skidding mishaps were numerous.

One thousand army cots were expected to arrive today for use by relief organizations and by the City Home at Mayview. The cots, with mattresses and blankets, are being loaned by the National Guard of Pennsylvania, in response to urgent appeals by Attorney Harry I. Miller, secretary of the Helping Hand, and James P. Kerr, city controller.

Some of the cots will be set up at Mayview to take care of the present inmates and anticipated increase during the winter months. According to Dr. J. S. Hammer, superintendent of Mayview, the city welfare authorities are working with charitable organizations that there may be no overlapping.

The Volunteers of America today sent out another appeal for clothing. Since arrival of the cold weather this organization has distributed thousands of articles of apparel. Overcoats are badly needed. Any clothing may be left at fire engine houses or at the Volunteers headquarters, 724 East Diamond street, North Side.

be sworn into office. While the Senate voted, Davis kept tabulation on a piece of paper. When the vote in his favor was announced, Davis arose with a smile and walked to the rostrum with Reed. He was sworn by Vice President Curtis.

Nye's effort to bar Davis proved abortive because there was nothing officially before the Senate on which it could act. Nye was slow in filing a report on the Pennsylvania primary and the Senate refused to bar Davis without definite charges before it.

ISSUE NOT CLOSED

This first skirmish ended in Davis' favor, but it by no means terminates the issue. The Nye committee can file a report later on declaring Davis not entitled to his seat and the whole issue will be raised again. If Nye does make another attempt, it will develop a constitutional question as to whether the Pennsylvanian can then be deprived of his seat by a majority vote, or whether a two-thirds vote is required.

In the famous Truman L. Newberry case a decade ago, the Senate tried to oust the then Michigan senator by a majority vote after he had held office for many months. Newberry won on that ballot, but subsequently when the people elected a few more anti-Newberry senators he resigned rather than face another contest to hold his seat. That whole battle laid a precedent, however, for ousting a seated senator by a majority vote.

Davis' Caution Costs Successor Money

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(INS.)—Because the Welsh-blooded James J. Davis desired to slide from one job to another without slipping off the Federal payroll, William N. Doak is going to lose a little more than $41 each and every day between now and the time the Senate sees fit to confirm him as Secretary of Labor.

All Washington was chuckling today over the comedy enacted at the department of labor in which President Hoover finally was forced to take a hand.

LAST MINUTE AFFAIR

Davis had submitted his resignation as labor chief to be accepted at the pleasure of the President, but with the oral understanding that would be 11:45 a. m., just 15 minutes before the Senate convened. That would have enabled Doak, the new secretary, to be shown in as a recess appointment, the Senate not yet in session.

PLANS UPSET

But Senator Nye upset "Pudler Jim's" plans considerably. Photographers and reporters were assembled in his office to see Doak sworn in. Doak went through the motions of signing a document, but did not put his hand on a Bible and take the oral oath to uphold the Constitution. Davis shook hands, congratulated Doak and, turning to Mrs. Doak, said:

"I want to introduce you to the handsomest Secretary of Labor in the nation's history."

Later Davis announced he still was secretary—that this had been merely a "preview" to be held for release—but that Doak "could go ahead with his duties" until the Senate admitted him. This, Davis continued, probably would be today. Doak laughed and said nothing.

CONFUSION

In high confusion, reporters sought information at the White House as to exactly who was secretary of Labor.

Secretary to the President, George Akerson, laughed, and disappeared into the "chief's" office. In ten minutes he returned and said:

But, alas, it developed that in the meantime the Senate had convened and Doak could not take the oath until he had been confirmed. Beginning today, Assistant Secretary Robe Carl White becomes actin, secretary ipso facto.

HINDENBURG IN DICTATOR ROLE

By OTTO D. TOLISCHUS
International News Service.

BERLIN, Dec. 2.—President Paul Von Hindenburg, for the second time in six months, was the virtual ruler of Germany today.

Informed by Chancellor Heinrich Bruening of the cabinet's opinion that a majority in the Reichstag on the various financial and other bills deemed necessary to tide Germany over her present economic crisis was not possible, the executive decreed the promulgation of the government's fiscal program and economic reforms over parliament's head.

Tomorrow the Reichstag, on reconvening, will find itself faced with the choice of accepting the dictatorial decree or disavowing the government. A vote on the matter is scheduled for Saturday.

Chancellor Bruening, by marshalling the support of the middle parties and Socialists, hoped to defeat the combined opposition of the Nationalists, Communists and Fascists.

Lady Astor Must Have Men At 'Manless Dinner'

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Lady Astor thought she had planned a manless dinner party and reception for this evening to celebrate "a woman's year," but at the last moment discovered that men will be present after all.

No men were invited and even a woman's orchestra will provide music for the gay affair, but a corps of suave men in black tailcoats will be hovering in the background of the American-born member of Parliament's home. They are the waiters necessary to serve the dinner. In the excitement of seeing the affair strictly feminine, they were overlooked.

Lady Astor's butler, when the error was pointed out, said:

"Now, I say, that's too bad. The parlor maids should have been organized for service."

At the dinner will be 36 of Britain's most distinguished women, and about 400 more will be present at the reception following.

Dinner is to be served in the great dining room of Lady Astor's home in St. James' Square. Large masses of red chrysanthemums will be the decoration. There will be no speeches of any kind at the dinner or at the reception.

Cats Shared Bed, Husband Seeking Divorce Says

William H. Tenser, merchandise broker, living at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, complained that his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Tenser, living at the Coronado apartments, brought two or three cats to sleep in their bed, in his testimony at the hearing of his divorce suit by Judge Sylvester Snee in Common Pleas Court.

Mrs. Tenser, contesting the suit, declared that he was fond of one of the cats, a black one named "Mike," and regarded it as lucky. She denied his charges of cruelty and indignities, including a charge that she threatened to maim him with a butcher knife. They were ideally happy until after a trip to California, about April, 1929, after which he started to complain and nag, telling her he was tired of her and did not want her around, she testified.

They were married March 23, 1911, and separated September 29, 1929. Afterwards he provided her with an allowance of $275 monthly until September 1 last, she declared. Upon her petition, Judge Snee granted her an order of $50 weekly alimony and $300 counsel fees.

PARLEY CALLED ON BLUE LAWS

A move to co-ordinate the efforts of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh to modify the Sunday Blue Laws will be made by a committee of Pittsburgh councilmen scheduled to go to Philadelphia Thursday.

This committee headed by Councilman Harry A. Little and accompanied by Representative M. A. Musmanno, will confer with a similar committee of Philadelphia councilmen as well as with civic leaders in that city.

According to Councilman Little, an effort will be made to forget politics, sectional differences and selfish considerations in a real effort to push through the 1931 Legislature a bill that will supplant the old laws.

Polls taken by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and others taken in Philadelphia show an overwhelming majority against the Blue Laws. The effort will be to crystallize that sentiment into legislative votes.

The other members of the committee are Councilman M. J. Muldowney, of Oakland, and Clifford B. Connelley, of the North Side.

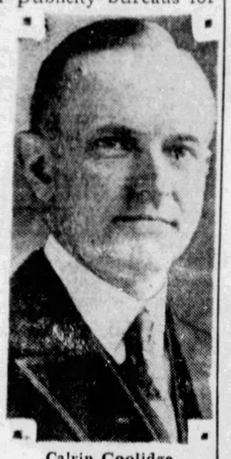
Coolidge Hits Interests' Demands On Congress

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Dec. 2.

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

One of the hardest problems the Congress has to meet is the constant pressure of outside influence. The old lobby that was so frequently charged with vicious activity practically has disappeared. But the organized minorities of special interests with agents and publicity bureaus for creating an artificial appearance of public opinion and showering senators and representatives with letters and telegrams has grown to huge proportions. It is a species of super-government undertaking to exercise sovereignty without any duly constituted authority or public responsibility. In consequence the Congress is put under duress. Almost all these organizations seek an expenditure of the taxpayer's money.



Calvin Coolidge

Every interest has a right to organize and be heard. But the right to Congressional action depends on the relation of the request to the welfare of all the people. If the Congress could be let alone, if it could be free to form its own judgments on what it knows are the realities instead of being forced to surrender to the artificial, much time and money would be saved and much better legislation would result. The Congressmen are the legal representatives of the people. No other agency can claim exclusive right to speak in the name of the people.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

90,000 MINERS STAY ON STRIKE

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Ninety thousand Scottish coal miners remained away from their work while their delegates met at Glasgow in a new attempt to effect a temporary settlement of their difficulties with the mine owners.

The miners themselves did not reflect the optimism which prevailed in high quarters that a settlement would be reached, the general feeling being that the national conference Thursday would solve the problem for Scotland as well as the rest of Great Britain.

Work continued in English and Welsh mines with a few exceptions, although there were indications of a growing unrest in South Wales.

CAPITOL GUNS TO BALK REDS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(INS.)—Shiny and well-oiled shotguns, resting in expert hands, protected the halls of Congress today from further attempted invasions by any foreign element.

The modern weapons were requisitioned by the guards at the Capitol after 500 irate Communists yesterday demanded they be permitted to enter the rooms of the House and Senate. When told they could not stage a demonstration within the Capitol they attempted to bark their protests and wave their banners in front of the building.

This brought both Capitol and city police into action and the confusion was so great for several moments that the police were forced to hurl tear gas bombs into the frenzied, shrieking mob of men and women.

Police used their clubs and several of the demonstrators were sent to hospitals with cut heads. Among four women and three men arrested were John Zilic, 41, of McKeesport, Pa.

Chicago Scientists Digging For Armageddon Secrets

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Armageddon, the meeting place of ancient nations, and battleground of untold centuries, is unfolding its secrets to the modern world.

From halfway round the globe, men have come to Palestine to extract new detail in the mosaic of civilization from the crumbling ruins of a mountain pass.

For a few thousand dollars when once no money would suffice the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago has purchased the right to excavate on the site of the storied city. Dr. James H. Breasted, head of the institute, revealed today how a cross-section of human works in bygone centuries is slowly showing itself on the hills beneath Mt. Carmel.

Stone age to Solomon to Palestine of 1930, with only the mountain peaks enduring—Armageddon is yielding visual history to the chipping knives of the Chicago expeditions.

It was Armageddon of which St. John the Divine wrote in Revelations; Armageddon, the site of the last great war, when the nations are gathered to "the battle of that great day of God Almighty."

It was Armageddon where, 15 centuries before the Saviour, Canaanites and Egyptians under Thutmose III fought under the fortressed hills in the first known conflict on that site.

Beer Bottle Rests Within Imperial German Crown

BERLIN, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—There is a beer bottle inside the great golden imperial crown of Germany in the Kaiser's former palace, Unter Den Linden, says the newspaper Vorwaerts, quoting the son of the man who put it there 36 years ago.

It is the son's story that Wilhelm, annoyed by the scant observance by the populace of "Busstag" (Day of Repentance), which falls in November, issued a homily to his people enjoining them that all work cease that day.

It happened that the white marble hall of the palace was being renovated, and the four crowns of the house of Hohenzollern, the Margrave, the Prussian royal, and the imperial German crown, being fixed to the ceiling. The Kaiser, anxious to have the hall ready for a court function, found that if no work was done on "Busstag" it could not be completed in time. So he decreed that in this particular instance, the observance order should not apply.

Vorwaerts printed some ironical comment with the consequence that the issue was confiscated by the police. One of the palace workmen secreted a copy, put it inside a beer bottle and embedded it securely in plaster inside the crown.

It is still there, Vorwaerts asserts.

4 HUNTERS DIE IN CAMP BLAZE

The dead are Otto Rittner and Joseph Grunaly, of New Britain, Conn., and Thomas Hill and Daniel Reilly, of Shelton, Conn.

The hunters were awakened when a stove exploded. As the fire spread boxes of shotgun shells began to discharge.

The camp was located half a mile from the nearest telephone and it was only after farmers noticed the flames that aid arrived.

PASTOR STANDS BY ATTACK ON DRY LEADER

Dr. Robinson, Director of Reform Group, Scored Clarence True Wilson

The Rev. Dr. A. R. Robinson, pastor of the Sixth United Presbyterian Church, elected a director of the National Reform Association, today stood pat on his statement deploring the Rev. Clarence True Wilson's attack on Director Amos W. W. Woodcock, of the prohibition bureau.

The statement was made at a banquet of the association in the William Penn Hotel last night. A motion, discussed at the business session of the organization this morning, was dropped after it was explained that Dr. Robinson merely expressed his personal opinion, and not that of the association.

ANNUAL DINNER HELD

Ben H. Spence, Washington representative of a Toronto newspaper, was one of the speakers at the annual dinner last night in McCreery's. He spoke on liquor control in Toronto. He said:

"You cannot remedy the evils that come from the use of alcoholic beverages by providing facilities, even under government auspices, by which those beverages may be obtained for use any more than you can cure a plague or epidemic by providing facilities even under government auspices for the dissemination of germs and disease."

Mr. Spence was introduced by the Rev. Dr. A. R. Robinson, pastor of the Sixth United Presbyterian Church, the toastmaster. Mr. Robinson also introduced the other speaker of the evening, the Rev. Dr. W. Wofford T. Duncan, pastor of the Emory Methodist Episcopal Church. Dr. Duncan speaking on "Prohibition and the Wet Press," said:

CRITICISM SCORED

"The prohibition issue has suffered at the hands of the wet press the most serious, insidious and unfair bombardment that has ever come to any moral cause. If the same attack were directed against traffic laws, income tax laws, anti-gambling laws, to say nothing of the laws against theft and murder, these misdemeanors and crimes would soar skyward in a few years. That the prohibition cause still lives is testimony to its inherent and popular support."

Mormonism and laxity of prohibition enforcement were among the movements hit by Mrs. Lulu Loveland Shepard, speaking at the first organization meeting of the women's auxiliary yesterday afternoon in the First Presbyterian Church. J. W. Vickerman also spoke, outlining how to meet wet opposition.

A platform of action to be followed by the women's branch was adopted.

AVIATRIX SAFE ON ISLAND

Salter today assured International News Service that Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix forced down on Andros Island and missing since Friday after an attempted hop from Havana to Miami, was none the worse for her thrilling experience.

She was housed in a hut until morning, when native seamen braved a heavy sea to bring her to Nassau.

Mrs. Keith-Miller left Havana at 9 a. m. last Friday in her monoplane Bullet in the hope of reaching Miami, Fla., in record time. She was carried off her course by a high wind and confused by a defective compass, according to reports. Lack of radio and other communication facilities on Andros prevented her from informing the mainland of her safety.

JOIN AVIATRIX

The safe arrival at Nassau of Mrs. Keith-Miller caused wide rejoicing, ending a hunt in which scores of boats and many airplanes participated.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 2.—(INS.)—Capt. W. N. Lancaster, with John Liggett, III, and E. V. Rodenbaugh, of Pittsburgh, and Karl Voelter, Curtis Wright manager, arrived in Nassau this morning to bring back Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix who landed her plane on lonely Andros Island Friday after straying from the course in a projected flight from Havana to Miami. They are expected to return late today with Mrs. Keith-Miller. Capt. Lancaster said:

"I was in comunication with her last evening, and, while she was somewhat confused and excited as a result of her experience, she is well and eager to get back to the United States. She plans to fly to Washington to thank Rear Admiral William Moffat, chief of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, for the efforts made by navy planes and ships to locate her during the days she was missing."

AVIATORS PUZZLED

Meanwhile, Miami aviation circles remained puzzled today, pending arrival of Mrs. Keith-Miller, at the site of her landing, 125 miles or more south by east of her announced destination. Aviators recalled that a 30-mile-an-hour wind was blowing from the East Friday when Mrs. Keith-Miller left Havana. They pointed that except for unusual circumstances, she would have been blown to the West, probably over the Gulf of Mexico, if the course deviated.

Information from Havana was that she set a 34-degree course directly for Miami when she left and made no allowance for wind drift.

Racketeers Add Pedigreed Dogs To List

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—The S. P. C. A. reveals that racketeers have added pedigreed dogs to their rackets.

Sydney H. Coleman, executive vice president of the society, says that boys are hired to steal pet dogs which are resold through "fences." He offers $100 reward for evidence leading to the conviction of such thieves. He said:

"The racketeers are secret places for keeping stolen dogs; they give them beauty-parlor treatment, pluck hair, clip ears, bob tails and do all sort of cruel things so that the dog's real owner frequently is unable to identify his pet."

RUTH NICHOLS SETS RECORD

Commenting on her flight completed here yesterday from New York in the flying time of 16 hours, 59½ minutes, she said:

"Snow and rain forced me to skim the tree tops at times west of Amarillo, Tex.

Madame Walker's Rare Collection Brings $58,500

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—The household furnishings which the late Mme. C. J. Walker collected from many parts of the world at a cost of some $350,000 have been sold to the highest bidders for $58,500.

The Villa Lewaro at Irvington-on-Hudson was denuded of its last furnishing yesterday at the close of a three-day auction. The $4,000 24-karat gold-leaf piano brought $450 and a Tabriz rug went for $1,400.

Mme. Walker, a Negro, amassed great wealth from the discovery and marketing of a hair-straightening lotion for the members of her race.

BUILDER SUPPLY FIRMS MERGE

The merger of two Pittsburgh building supply companies to be called, perhaps, the Houston-Starr Company, was announced today by A. Q. Starr, treasurer of the A. Q. Starr Co.

Much of the yard space and equipment of Houston Bros., and a majority of the Houston employes will join the staff of the A. Q. Starr Co. in the amalgamation, Mr. Starr said.

The East Liberty yards of the Houston Company will be disposed of outside the merger, it was said.

The concern with which Mr. Starr was affiliated for 25 years, was founded in 1885. The other was formed in 1925.

Highlights in Hoover Message to Congress

(Universal Service.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Highlights in President Hoover's annual message to Congress delivered today were:

During the past 12 months we have suffered with other nations from economic depression.

There are many factors which give encouragement for the future. The fact that we are holding from 80 to 85 per cent of our normal incomes.

Our immediate problem is the increase of employment for the next six months, and new plans which do not produce such immediate results or which extend commitments beyond this period are not warranted.

I feel warranted in asking Congress for an appropriation of from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 to provide such further employment in this emergency.

AGRICULTURE

The price levels of our major agricultural commodities are, in fact, higher than those in other principal producing countries, due to the combined result of the tariff and the operations of the Farm Board.

In order that our country may meet its full obligation toward our countrymen in distress through no fault of their own, I recommend that an appropriation should be made to the Department of Agriculture to be loaned for the purpose of seed and feed for animals.

GOVERNMENT FINANCES

Closely revised estimates of receipts indicate a decrease of about $430,000,000 from the estimate of a year ago, of which about $75,000,000 is due to tax reduction, leaving about $355,000,000 due to the depression.

The practical result of the change in the situation is an estimated deficit of about $180,000,000 for the present fiscal year.

LEGISLATION

The Congress has before it legislation, partially completed in the last sitting, in respect to Muscle Shoals, bus regulation, relief of congestion in the courts, reorganization of border patrol in prevention of smuggling, law enforcement in the District of Columbia and other subjects. It is desirable that these measures should be completed.

ELECTRICAL POWER

I have, in a previous message, recommended effective regulation of interstate electrical power. Such regulation should preserve the independence and responsibility of the states.

RAILWAYS

We have determined upon a national policy of consolidation of the railways as a necessity of more stable and more economically operated transportation. Further legislation is necessary to facilitate such consolidation.

ANTI-TRUST LAWS

IMMIGRATION

There is need for revision of our immigration laws upon a more limited and more selective basis, flexible to the needs of the country.

DEPORTATION

I urge the strengthening of our deportation laws so as to more fully rid ourselves of criminal aliens.

POSTOFFICE

To prevent the occasion for further uneconomic leasing I recommend that our Congress authorize the building by government of its own facilities.

FOREIGN RELATIONS

Our relations with foreign countries have been maintained upon a high basis of cordiality and good will.

I shall in a special message lay before the Senate the protocols covering the statutes of the World Court which have been revised to accord with the sense of previous Senate reservation.

PRESIDENT SEES PROSPERITY RETURNING

committees be appointed to cooperate with the various federal departments to prepare suitable bills for the subsequent Congress.

Although the President's message was optimistic, he said the situation is still serious for a large number of unemployed and that they must be provided for through the winter. He made it plain that the United States had been retarded in recovering from the depression by the inability of other nations to come back, and by "fear and apprehension."

General Terms

The President's message was phrased in the most general terms. It was more in the nature of a report on his stewardship than in specific requests for congressional action.

At the opening he said:

"Substantial progress has been made during the year in national peace and security; the fundamental strength of the nation's economic life is unimpaired; education and scientific discovery have made advances; our country is more alive to its problems of moral and spiritual welfare."

The President reviewed extensively the causes of the depression, principally overproduction throughout the world of such basic commodities as wheat, rubber, coffee, sugar, copper, silver, zinc, cotton and other raw materials. He said:

"The cumulative effects of demoralizing price falls of these important commodities in the process of adjustment of production to world consumption have produced financial crises in many countries and have diminished the buying power of these countries for imported goods to a degree which extended the difficulties farther afield by creating unemployment in all industrial nations. The political agitation in Asia; revolutions in South America and political unrest in some European states; the methods of sale by Russia of her increasing agricultural exports to European markets, and our own drought—have all contributed to prolong and deepen the depression."

Cites Figures

The President then cited the first accurate figures of the extent of the decline in the United States, but with them encouraging figures for the future. He listed Value of department store sales, 93 per cent of 1928.

Wholesale prices—all commodities, 83 per cent of 1928.

Cost of living, 94 per cent of 1928.

The President said:

"Various other indexes indicate total decrease of activity from 1928 of from 15 to 20 per cent."

He added:

"There are many factors which give encouragement for the future. The fact that we are holding from 80 to 85 per cent of our normal activities and incomes; that our major financial and industrial institutions have come through the storm unimpaired; that price levels of major commodities have remained approximately stable for some time; that a number of industries are showing signs of increasing demand; that the world at large is readjusting itself to the situation; all reflect grounds for confidence.

Only Temporary

"We should remember that these occasions have been met many times before, that they are but temporary, that our country is today stronger and richer in resources, in equipment, in skill than ever in its history. We are in an extraordinary degree self-sustaining, we will overcome world influences and will lead the march or prosperity as we have always done hitherto.

"Economic depression cannot be cured by legislative action or executive pronouncement. Economic wounds must be healed by the action of the cells of the economic body — the producers and consumers themselves.

"Recovery can be expedited and its effects mitigated by cooperative action. That co-operation requires that every individual should sustain faith and courage; that each should maintain his self-reliance; that each and every one should search for method of improving his business or service; that the vast majority whose income is unimpaired should not hoard out of fear but should pursue their normal living and recreations; that each should seek to assist his neighbors who may be less fortunate; that each industry should assist its own employes; that each community and each state should assume its full responsibilities for organization of employment and relief of distress with that sturdiness and independence which built a great nation.

People Responding

"Our people are responding to three impulses in remarkable degree."

The President stated that unfortunately a certain amount of unemployment would have to continue through the winter, but that the government and other agencies would see to it that none suffer. He urged Congress to make a necessary appropriation for the purchase of seed and feed for animals, the nearest recommendation to a direct appropriation for relief. He fixed no sum.

The President said that after a canvass of the various government departments he felt warranted in asking Congress for an additional appropriation of from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 to accelerate construction for the relief of unemployment. This would bring the total up to $430,000,000, he said.

The President summarized the state of the treasury by declaring that through a decrease of $430,000,000 in revenue and an increase of $225,000,000 in expenditure, the original budget for the current year had been adversely changed by about $655,000,000, but that this had been partially offset by a $123,000,000 surplus carried over from last year, the application of $185,000,000 of interest payments upon the foreign debt to current expenditures, by repayments by the Farm Board on its advances reducing its net cash demands $100,000,000 and by about $67,000,000 of economies and deferments, to leave an actual deficit in prospect at the end of the year of only $180,000,000.

HOOVER VIEWS CRITICIZED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(INS.)—The anti-prohibitionists in Congress were keenly disappointed over President Hoover's failure to discuss prohibition in his annual message on the state of the nation. The drys also appeared to be displeased because he failed to mention better enforcement of the law.

The Democrats also found loopholes in the message. Senator Joe T. Robinson, Senate Democratic leader, indicated a feeling that the President didn't realize the seriousness of either the unemployment problem or agricultural distress. Robinson said the conditions called for "liberal and extraordinary remedies."

Senator Pat Harrison (Dem.) of Mississippi, also criticized the message as indicating the President did not sense the distress of the country, adding:

"His resume of the causes of our present economic disorder present an excuse that is pitiable, an alibi that is ridiculous. If he had desired to put his finger on the real cause he would have confessed that it was the deception, prolonged discussion and enactment of the indefensible Hoover-Grundy tariff act that provoked and assured the economic debacle."

BREAD LINE PAIR BATTLE, JAILED

Two men accused of engaging in a fist fight while waiting in the bread line at the Helping Hand, Water street, were sent to jail for five days in Central Police Court in default of fines of $5 each.

Police testified Lawrence Jeuhke, 25, grumbled because his soup cooled while he was waiting for bread, and that when George Phillips, 36, reproached him for lack of patience a fist fight resulted.

John Andrews, 48, accused by police of having gone to the place intoxicated, and of having caused a disturbance among others there, was sent to the workhouse for 10 days.

FINDS MOTHER AFTER 20 YEARS

CLEVELAND, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Harold L. Pickerm, 23, who said that while working as a "movie" extra in Hollywood he had doubled for John Gilbert, found his mother after a 20-year separation.

Pickerm told county officials he hitch-hiked from Hollywood to Cleveland in 11 days to make an attempt to find his mother. The courthouse learned his parents had been divorced in 1911, two years after he had been taken West by his father, who later remarried, he said.

The youth found that his mother had remarried in 1912 to Charles Myers, of Cleveland. Checking up at the last Myers' residence here he was placed on the trail that led to a woman who told him she had talked to his mother by long distance telephone.

Pickerm quickly placed a long distance call to his mother in Bedford, a suburb of Detroit, and after talking with her, took a bus for Detroit.

HEAR CAB CASE TOMORROW

The Public Service Commission will hear the Bell Cab Company, applicant for a certificate of public convenirance, Wednesday morning. The company, represented by Congressman Harry Estep, proposes to operate a fleet of Chevrolet taxicabs on a zone system, said to be at much lower rates than those charged by the Parmelee Transportation Company, operators of the Yellow and Green Cabs.

$150,000 RELIEF FUND IN PHILA.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—City Council adopted a motion giving $150,000 for relief of the city's poor. The item was added to the 1931 estimates of the Department of Public Welfare.

Horatio Gates Lloyd, chairman of the committee on unemployment relief, who requested a relief fund of $1,000,000, expressed the opinion, after attending the session of council, that the city would increase the fund to the amount asked in four or five months, as delinquent taxes and water rents are paid.

Paderewski
SYRIA MOSQUE

PROGRAM

Variations and Fugue on a theme by Handel ..... Brahms
Sonata E minor, Opus 90 ..... Beethoven
Sonata B minor, Opus 35 ..... Chopin
Etude C major, Opus 10, No. 1 ..... Chopin
Etude A minor, Opus 25, No. 11 ..... Chopin
The Maiden's Wish ..... Chopin
The Wind in the Pine ..... Debussy
Serenade ..... Debussy
Prelude C sharp minor ..... Rachmaninoff
Prelude G flat major, Opus 32, No. 10 ..... Rachmaninoff
Etude E flat minor, Opus 25, No. 12 ..... Chopin
Waltzes and Scotch Polonaise ..... Wagner-Liszt
La Campanella ..... Paganini-Liszt

Paderewski again played to a capacity audience in Syria Mosque last night, and the adoring public arose as one man to greet the veteran pianist and statesman.

J. Fred Lissfelt

Whether he is the greatest pianist is questionable, but that he is the greatest personality before the musical public can hardly be doubted. Whether we shall ever again have such an array of stars, of whom Paderewski is about the last, is beyond hope.

Certainly the tired business man grew more tired as classic piled on classic, but the Polish patriot held the vast audience until he had played what he promised and another group of brilliant encores.

There is little in his playing that is not admirable and although his scale may be no longer so sparkling as in his youth, his repose is magnificent and his fire burns with warmer glow.

We can not be sure just how far the artist is conscious of all his effects, but in the Brahms Variations and the Beethoven and Chopin Sonatas, Paderewski drew a remarkable line of demarcation in the three periods of the romantic school of music. Unlike so many other pianists he did not toy with tone-making during those variations, but etched out their designs with utmost clarity, never forgetting the spirit of the Handel theme, no matter how top-heavy the Brahms coating became. In the Beethoven Sonata, the excessive calm in the recitative of the first movement as well as in the second movement aided the simplicity of the entire reading. His Chopin Sonata lacked all simpering of the sentimentalists and was a towering climax to the first half of the program.

Of his minor Chopin group, the mazurkas take first place for the caressing tone of the middle voices, which nearly all others entirely overlook. His Debussy was sheerest poetry and impressionism. He might have surprised the composer with that reading of the favorite Rachmaninoff Prelude, and the audience was not so enthusiastic about it. The G Minor Prelude was far more agreeable. Paderewski understood well enough the excerpt from "Tristan and Isolde," but Schelling was not successful in his arrangement; for the passion expressed in that prelude we need more than the metallic tones of a piano. Concluding with the old war-horse of Liszt, the entire evening was an exhibition of piano playing such as we are likely to hear never again.

Two stirring Brahms Hungarian Dances, a Strauss-Walzer, Man Lebt Nur Einmal, and a Schubert Impromptu as encores sent the audience reluctantly from the Mosque.

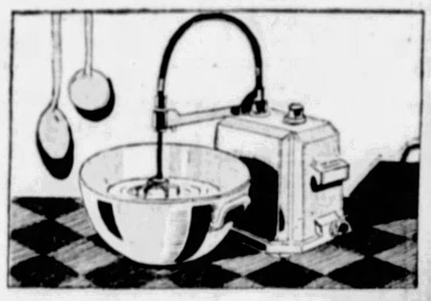
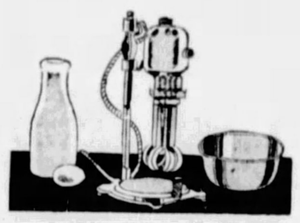
HERE'S the Handy Ann Electric Servant caught in the act of mixing cake batter; but it can also beat, whip, mash, grate, shred, extract juice, sharpen cutlery, and polish silver! There's all the drudgery taken out of the kitchen . . . and the cost for all this convenience is only $68.50.



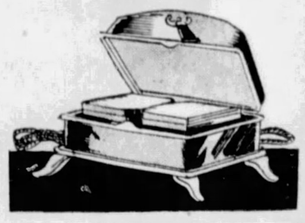
Kitchen Time-Savers



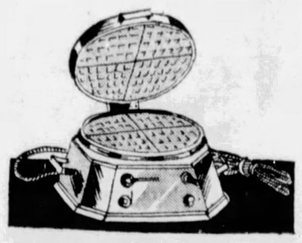
The Magic Maid is another valuable electric kitchen helper. It makes short work of beating or whipping batters, fillings, icings, eggs and mayonnaise. And in 30 seconds it can be changed into a juice extractor which squeezes lemons, oranges, limes or grapefruit in no time. Complete, $19.50.

Other Electric Mixers, $4.95 to $178.

Does your family like toasted sandwiches? Then have an Edicraft . . . and don't wait until Christmas. It toasts top and bottom of a sandwich evenly and quickly. And it has no objection to cooking a savory filet mignon, chops, bacon or even ham and eggs! $18.50.



The Toastmaster—the electric toaster that toasts a slice of bread, then pops it into reach when it is done—is probably familiar to you; but did you know that it now accommodates two slices of toast at one time? Just the thing for a family that can't wait for toast one slice at a time. Priced $17.50.



The Wafflemaster—electrical companion to the Toastmaster—performs the same burning-prevention act with waffles that the toaster does with toast. A glowing red light tells you when the waffle is done, without the many lid-liftings that are usually required and which retard the browning of a good waffle. Priced $22.50.

DOCTOR GUILTY IN DRUG SALES

Dr. E. S. Cooper, 462, of New Castle, Pa., was convicted in Federal Court of violating the Harrison narcotic act. The jury found him guilty on 30 counts of an indictment charging him with issuing prescriptions for morphine to drug addicts, not in accordance with his professional practice. The government was represented in the prosecution of the case by Assistant United States Attorney Zeno Pyzz.

Sentence was postponed by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker whom counsel for the physician advised the court that a motion would be filed for a new trial. The jury in its verdict recommended extreme mercy of the court. The investigation that led to the indictment was made by William T. Duffy, government narcotic agent in charge of the Pittsburgh district.

MAN CONVICTED IN AUTO THEFT

Joseph T. Rose, 22, of Wheeling, W. Va., was convicted in Federal Court of violating the national motor vehicle theft act by transporting a stolen automobile from Wheeling to Pittsburgh on June 12. William McManus, a codefendant, was acquitted last week.

Both men had been placed on trial before Judge R. M. Gibson last Tuesday, but the following morning Rose failed to appear in court when the trial was resumed. The trial was then continued as to McManus. Later in the day when Rose appeared he was placed under $10,000 bond to assure his presence when called for trial. The court also made an assessment of $250 for expense he caused the government by the special trial.

NO NEED TO BE TIRED OUT IN MID-AFTERNOON

By Eating or Drinking Something Sweet This Zero Hour Can Be Avoided

Millions of people engaged in business have the common problem of fighting fatigue in mid-afternoon. This condition is due, not only to the fact that energy has been expended during the early part of the day, but that business invariably speeds up in the afternoon and makes its greatest demands on the worker.

Scientific tests have proved that this mid-afternoon fatigue can be overcome or lessened materially by eating or drinking something sweet. The type of nourishment which has been used in the experiments are candy, ice cream, cookies, cakes, milk, carbonated beverages and the "athlete's cocktail"—a glass of water sweetened with sugar.

It is the sugar in these snacks that refreshes the system. Of all food products, none is more quickly digested than sugar and its energy becomes available immediately.

Since candy, cakes, ice cream and sweet beverages are within reach of nearly every one there is no need to endure the "gone" feeling during the daily zero hour. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

STATE PASSES HIGHWAY GOAL

HARRISBURG, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Road construction in Pennsylvania has passed the 1,500-mile goal set for the 1930 season by the Department of Highways.

With six miles of new paving laid during the last week, the season total reached 1,505 miles. Of that figure 1,029 miles were built by contractors for the department and 276 by the department's own forces.

Woman Eating Oysters Finds Giant Pearl

WELLAND, Ont., Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Mrs. Morley A. Parrett, quietly enjoying oyster stew, looked distressed when her teeth clamped unexpectedly on something hard.

You know the rest? It was a pearl—the largest and best a local jeweler had ever seen.

Venango Banks Pay $344,000 Yule Funds

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 2.—Franklin banks have added $152,000 to Christmas funds to be distributed in Venango County. Oil City's total is $192,000.

ENVOY EXPLAINS SCOTCH THRIFT

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador to the United States, told members of the St. Andrew's Society at their annual dinner that Scottish thrift was a national characteristic induced from centuries of wresting a living from a scanty land.

Sir Ronald, principal speaker and guest of honor at the dinner, said:

"Many laugh at the alleged parsimony of the Scotchman, forgetting that our forbears for centuries wrung a living from a scanty soil. They had to make provisions in a short summer for a long winter. The severe climate and the struggle to overcome nature has given a certain harshness to the Scotch character and implanted a sternness in their nature."

DEVICE TO HALT FUMES SHOWN

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Dr. Miller Reese Hutchison, former chief engineer and personal representative of Thomas A. Edison, demonstrated a device which he said would eliminate the danger of carbon-monoxide in crowded streets and save the country $1,000,000,000 a year in gasoline bills.

He said the device would measure the percentage of unburned gases and cut gasoline consumption by autos and trucks one-third. Airplanes, he asserted, would be enabled to fly from 1.5 to 1.7 times as far as they can now.

Capt. Frank Hawks will use the device on a flight to Memphis Wednesday or Thursday.

Former Dry Agent Sentenced to Jail

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Dec. 2.—(AP.)—C. L. Thoroughman, former Methodist minister and federal dry agent, was sentenced by Judge Edgar S. Vaught to 15 months in the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth on conviction of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws. He was fined $500. Thoroughman was arrested at a still near Lawton last March. He pleaded insanity, but was declared rational.

Rock Blast Kills Man on Scaffold

LANCASTER, Pa., Dec. 2.—(AP.)—A rock, blasted from the river bed at the Safe Harbor dam operations, struck Carrol Scarborough, 36, of Dublin, Md., and toppled him from a 60-foot scaffold. He suffered internal injuries and died an hour later at the St. Joseph Hospital here. Scarborough was at work on the scaffold when the blast, an unusually heavy one, was set off.

Sent to America, Refuses to Return

BERLIN, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Dispatches to the Telegraph Union said that the Academy of Science in Leningrad had been informed by Prof. V. V. Uspenski that he refused to return from America where he was sent by the Soviet government in 1929 to study industrial methods. The academy has stricken his name from its register and it was believed not unlikely that he would be sentenced to death for high treason.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

JUDGE PRAISES HOOVER'S WORK

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—The work of President Hoover in the field of service for children and young people was praised by Judge B. F. Jones, Newark, N. J., president of the International Boys' Work Council, which has opened a three-day session here. Delegates from many cities attended.

"The conference on child health and protection which President Hoover called recently brought together leading men and women interested in children, and the result of the conference will be far-reaching," Judge Jones said.

Dr. John A. Lapp, of Marquette University, Milwaukee, Wis., another speaker, said boys' work must extend to all boys. He said:

"While it is the underprivileged boy that most needs wise help and guidance, we should not overlook the exceptional boys who, by stimulation and help, may achieve great things. Sound boys' work carefully avoids mollycoddling. Its object is to make straight the path of opportunity for all and not to relieve boys of the necessity of effort."

ASK MORE MEN IN TARIFF QUIZ

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Need for a larger staff of employes to aid in carrying out the duties imposed by Congress was voiced by the Federal Tariff Commission.

In its annual report, the Commission said this was necessary if it "is to perform with reasonable celerity the increased and increasing amount of work entrusted to it."

The Commission also said it would need larger quarters.

The staff consisted of 214 persons at the close of the fiscal year. Additional employes were said to be needed to care for the 35 investigations, including five general inquiries, ordered by the Senate, and the 30 private inquiries under way.

The Commission, reorganized by the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill, is charged with the duty of investigating the difference in cost of production in this country and abroad and making recommendations for any needed tariff changes.

Signals Ordered At Rail Crossings

HARRISBURG, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Installation of flashing light signals at two railroad crossings was ordered today by the Public Service Commission. One of the crossings ordered thus protected is that located on Murrinville road, in Marion Township, Butler County, which is crossed by tracks of the Hilliard branch of the Bessemer and Lake Erie Railroad. The other is the crossing of North First street in Spangler, Cambria County, by the Cresson branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

CIRCUS HORSES SAVED IN FIRE

PERU, Ind., Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Swept by a high wind, fire destroyed a large barn in the winter quarters of the John Robinson circus here. Loss was estimated by circus officials at $140,000. No one was injured, and the circus herd of horses and a number of trained dogs were removed safely.

The blaze started, firemen said they believed, from spontaneous combustion in 300 tons of hay stored in the barn. In addition to the main barn, two ring barns burned.

When the fire was discovered, circus workers opened both doors of the big building and drove the 80 horses and several trained dogs into the open.

FAT MEN Make Me Smile

They Probably Never Heard of Kruschen Salts—That's Why the BIG FRONT Is Growing Bigger.

When I see a man carrying his burden of abdominal fat I have to smile—I don't smile because he presents a pathetic picture, mind you.

Not at all—I smile because he makes me think of the time I was carrying my load of fat—when even my friends called me "the man with the big front."

That was before I learned how easy it is to lose fat—before I had heard of Kruschen Salts—a combination of 6 vitalizing salts that impart such glorious activity to the body that fat just simply burns up and is gone—and stays gone.

I wish I could walk right up to every man I see carrying his burden of useless fat—give him a friendly slap on the back and say—

"Old man—please don't take offense—once I was as fat as you are, but I lost it all the safe way—the Kruschen way."

To lose fat, take one-half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning—don't miss a morning—while your fat is going you'll probably feel better than you have for years—more active, vigorous, ambitious—you'll feel younger.

And best of all, Kruschen Salts costs next to nothing, for an 85-cent bottle will last you 4 weeks. Get it at any drug store in the world. Millions take this daily health dose.

POTTERY WAGE CUT DISCUSSED

Possibility of a wage reduction throughout the pottery industry was being considered here today at sessions of the manufacturers and unions officials.

With the wage scale extended since its expiration in October to January 1, the labor committee of the United States Potters' Association met in the William Penn Hotel and prepared a new offer. At the same time, the executive board and conference committee of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters met in the Roosevelt Hotel considering terms being submitted to the manufacturers.

The joint session, being held this afternoon, was in charge of Joseph M. Wells, of Newell, W. Va. as chairman for the manufacturers, and James M. Duffy, East Liverpool, president of the labor union. This was the second joint conference. The first, held in Atlantic City during August, failed to bring about an agreement for the 7,500 ceramic workers in the country.

Hunter, Lost 4 Hours, Found Near Ligonier

LIGONIER, Pa., Dec. 2.—After having been lost for four and one-half hours in the fastnesses of the Laurel Hill mountains above Ligonier, Fred Austes, of McKeesport, was found by Game Warden John Fiske, nearly exhausted and with darkness overtaking him. Austes had shot a large deer and the excitement of the chase resulted in his losing all sense of direction.

Discussion of Canal Project Scheduled

Plans for the proposed Ohio River-Lake Erie canal, as approved by Pittsburgh interests, were to be outlined at a noon luncheon today in the Chamber of Commerce.

The War Department, it was revealed yesterday, has approved plans for spending $4,406,000 in improvements on the Ohio River system during the coming fiscal year.

MAN IDENTIFIED IN ATTACK

Identified as one of the two men who beat, attacked and robbed two South Hills young women, Harold Shumway, of Cambridge, Mass., was being held today by Mt. Lebanon police on three charges of felony.

Eight companions arrested with Shumway, who, police said, were canvassers, were absolved from blame last night by the young women, who appeared at the Mt. Lebanon Police Station. The alleged attacks occurred following a public dance several night ago, according to police.

Boys Fish Drugs Worth $75,000 From River

HAMILTON, O., Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Narcotics estimated to be worth $75,000 were fished out of the Big Miami River here, police announced.

Boys playing along the river bank saw several cartons floating by, pulled them out and took them to the office of a doctor who notified police. Officials believed the narcotics were stolen and thrown from a train by a person planning to return for them.

Search of the river, in belief that more cartons would be found, will be renewed with federal narcotic agents co-operating, it was announced.

MT. LEBANON PAY DEFERRED

Payment of the general contractor and sub-contractors of the new Mt. Lebanon Township Municipal Building was being deferred today following action taken by the township commissioners last night pending an inspection of the building next Monday by a representative of the State Department of Labor and Industry. State authorities have withheld approval of the building because the doors open inwardly.

Chairman C. W. Schenk and Commissioner L. C. Clark became involved in several verbal clashes when a bill of $3,200 for various phases of the building operations was presented the commissioners.

Justice of the Peace Ira Edmundson, the bonding company insuring him, and township auditors will meet with the commissioners Friday night to discuss payment of fines alleged not paid the township by Edmundson over a period of years.

SOVIET LEADER HOLDS 5-YEAR PLAN SUCCESS

Promises to Achieve Aims Ahead of Time, Sponsor Declares, Citing Gains

(In the following article Valerian V. Kuibyshev, vice president of the council of people's commissars and president of the state planning commission of the Soviet Union, gives the Soviet view of progress of the five-year industrialization plan in Russia.

Now more than two years old, the attempt to enforce the five-year industrialization and communization of Russia and Russian institutions must be reckoned as one of the greatest social and economic experiments of all time. As the man who has been in charge, M. Kuibyshev perhaps is the best qualified to relate what has taken place.

The article is based on a statement made especially to the Associated Press.)

(Copyright, 1930, by the Associated Press. All Rights Reserved.)

MOSCOW, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—In two years of operation, Valerian V. Kuibyshev, president of the state planning commission, asserts, the Soviet five-year industrialization plan not only has succeeded beyond expectation, but has given every promise of completion within four years instead of five.

M. Kuibyshev, who is responsible for putting the five-year plan into operation, said:

ESTIMATES EXCEEDED

In an exhaustive report on the first two years of the plan's operation, which ended October 1, M. Kuibyshev presents figures to show an increase beyond the planned production estimates in every department mentioned; not in a single one he lists do the results come beneath what had been projected. He writes:

"The past two years' operation of the plan furnishes sufficient material both for verifying the reality of its provisions and for verifying the justice of the objections and doubts which the plan aroused among representatives of bourgeois economic thought. The past two years have revealed Piatiletka (as the plan is called) being exceeded in the most important sections of national economy."

OUTPUT IN BILLIONS

There follow figures showing Piatiletka's progress:

In two years, M. Kuibyshev says, total output in planned industries under Piatiletka is estimated at 29,338,000,000 rubles (about $14,690,000,000). He writes:

"The excess of fulfillment of Piatiletka for the first two years is particularly remarkable in the field of heavy industry.

"While Piatiletka provides in this field for 12,476,000,000 rubles, the actual output was 13,764,000,000 rubles.

FIGURES ON INDUSTRIES

"The extent to which actual output exceeds estimates may be gauged from the following figures:

"Agricultural machinery — estimated 472,000,000 rubles, output 515,000,000 rubles.

AGRICULTURAL GAIN

M. Kuibyshev continues to say that building program figures are also far ahead of the Piatiletka estimates, and continues to a discussion of agriculture:

"A very great advance has been made in the field of agriculture. The sown area increased from 118,000,000 hectares in 1928-29 to 127,700,000 in 1929-30."

He states that, due to improved cultivation methods, the gross grain crop of this year was 86,500,000 tons against 71,700,000 tons in 1929, an increase of 20.6 per cent. Marketable grain produce, he said, was 32.6 per cent above Piatiletka provisions. Thus, he declares, the grain problem has been "fundamentally solved."

With regard to collective farming, he says that upwards of one-fifth of peasant households have joined in the collectives—that is, that more than 5,000,000 peasant households have rejected individual farming and have taken up collective farming.

Demand for 'Tickletoes' Keeps Doll Lady Busy

Dear Little Girls:

Only 24 more days until Christmas! Twenty-four days seems such a long, long time, but you all know that time flies and 24 days is only a little while at most. My, my! What a big job I have planned for myself for the only ten few days between now and Christmas.

I have already taken care of several hundred little girls with "Tickletoes" dollies. I have letters from hundreds more who want them and every day the mailman brings me another big stack from little girls who want to know how to get a "Tickletoes." So you can rest assured that the Doll Lady is going to be the busiest person in Pittsburgh for, at least, four weeks.

Thank goodness I have plenty of "Tickletoes" dollies with me—blondes, brunettes, red-haired and raven black-haired dollies. Yes, I have some that have hair you might call Titian in color. They're all bright-eyed and smiling—all waiting for some little girl to take them home to adore and care for. "Tickletoes" wants lots of care and love. You know she's almost as big as a year-old baby and you can give her a bath just like you could your baby sister or brother—if you have one.

"Tickletoes" is unbreakable, has a rosy complexion, rubber arms and legs that bend just like yours did when you were a baby and she can play with her toes, suck her thumbs, clasp her hands, go to sleep and, best of all, she has three different voices.

It isn't going to be hard for any little girl to get "Tickletoes" for a playmate. You'll have to do something for me but mother and dad and sister will help you and the little I ask will not be at all hard to do. Hundreds of little girls have already gladly done what I asked them to do and now they have their "Tickletoes" dollies long before Christmas.

Here are names of some of the little girls who wrote to me last week:

Mildred Schunda, Florence Skarpcuh, Virginia Dailey, Mary Minahan, Katie Pisaris, Nora Barnhart, Shirley Shafer, Mary Cornell, Helen Evans, Charlotte Davis, Mary Maloney, Anna Sutey, Nancy Cornelius, Kitty McCaffrey and Dorothy Erskine.

Now, little girls, send in the Doll Lady coupon today, and by return mail I'll tell you how you can get my wonder doll, "Tickletoes," all for yourself and before Christmas. Goodbye for today, the

SUN-TELEGRAPH DOLL LADY.

SCHOOL BLAST BURNS 5 BOYS

AKRON, O., Dec. 2.—(AP.)—An explosion believed to have originated in a gas tank wrecked the basement of the Bath Consolidated School, eight miles northwest of here, and seriously injured five boy pupils who were preparing for a basketball game.

The explosion occurred shortly after classes at the combined grade and high school had been dismissed and only the five boys and a class of 13 girls in the gymnasium were in the building. The girls and their instructor escaped injury.

The injured, brought to Akron hospitals, are: Jack McCausland, 15, and William Hazer, 15, in critical condition; Charle Codding, Kenneth Powers and Howard McKisson, 15. The latter three are seriously burned.

Fire that followed the explosion was put out by hand extinguishers wielded by school officials. No estimate of damage was given.

Every time Paderewski comes to town with his private Pullman, George Reiling the iron man, remembers when he and a dozen other East End youngsters were guests of the famed pianist's wife.

It was a dozen or more years ago, and Paderewski's car was parked along the circus tracks in Point Breeze. George and his friends were examining the wheels and the gadgets of the car when Mrs. Paderewski beckoned them to enter the Pullman.

She showed them the pianist's bed, his piano, his favorite chair. As they were leaving she showered them with candy and oranges.

"Yeh," agreed a companion, "but she didn't give us no apples."

There is a story behind an unwilling $5 contribution to the Welfare Fund. A welfare worker, in a none too desirable residential district, was going from house to house for contributions.

"I'll give you nothing," one woman refused. "I'll give nothing now or later; not a cent. Goodbye."

"What," asked the welfare worker, who owned a keen sense of smell, "is that odor coming from your house? Could it be moon---"

"Here," the lady interrupted, "here's $5."

At a recent society wedding the attention of the guests was disturbed beyond recovery by a cricket hidden in the palms. The cricket was forever making that noise peculiar to crickets which we cannot imitate, although we can do an excellent imitation of a mocking bird.

When the wedding was finally concluded, the mother of the bride went to the man who furnished the palms and told him to have the orchestra stay for a sandwich.

If Editor Harder, of Bellefonte, Pa., wants to find out what kind of character you possess, he'll show you a string of fish. Mr. Harder contends that if you say, as Governor-elect Pinchot did, "Gee, I'd like to have one of those on the end of a line," you're a person of real character, but if you say, "Those fish would make a swell meal," you're unimportant. It's not the meal; it's the catch.

Mr. Harder, in his late seventies, was the outstanding visitor at the opening of an exhibit of yellow perch in Carnegie Museum recently. Once he wrote a book in the language of Pennsylvania Dutch. Another time, a foppishly dressed stranger, examining an exhibit of fish, said to Mr. Harder: "I say, what do they eat?"

Dry Agents Seize Liquor and Still

A 100-gallon still, 60 gallons of moonshine and 26 barrels of mash were reported found by prohibition agents yesterday when they raided the home of James Deangelis, 26, of 855 Boggs avenue. Deangelis was lodged in jail in default of a $1,000 bond.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 2.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Will Rogers

We go to great length to keep track of what a robber did, but none to find out where he went. There were more "white spots" shown in this report than any that the government has issued. We don't want to be accused of bragging as as usual, but Los Angeles was second, right behind Detroit. We will catch 'em next month if we can only dig up some money to be robbed of.

Prohibition hasn't caused this wave of robberies. It's business depression. The poor robbers have to rob more people to make their quota than they used to. Give us good times again and the robber will get what he needs that day out of the first man robbed.

Yours, WILL.

HARD BATTLE BY FIREMEN IS FUTILE

Several Burned, One Hurt in Fall; Lumber Plant, in Receivership, Destroyed

An aged woman was rescued and several firemen were injured when fire last night destroyed the home of F. W. Finley, Cedar road, Elfinwild.

Police today were investigating a fire of mysterious origin that swept the three-story brick planing mill of the Ellwood Lumber Company, at Lexington avenue and Meade street.

Mrs. Finley was alone, confined to her bed, when the fire started. Fire Chief Park E. E. Ilch, of the Undercliff Volunteer department, carried her to safety.

FIREMAN HURT

Lieut. Ralph Bagley, of the Undercliff fire department, was bruised when he fell down a ladder. Several other men were burned.

Six fire companies, called on two alarms, battled flames in the lumber plant for three hours as winds drove the mercury to near the zero mark. Several other buildings of the company and adjacent property were threatened, but firemen confined the blaze to the mill.

ONE MAN HELD

West Homestead police today held Anton Tamusla for questioning in connection with a fire in a three-family frame dwelling in 511 Seventh avenue, West Homestead, last night. A quantity of alleged moonshine whisky and part of a still were found in the Tamusla apartment, police said. Neighbors today were taking care of the families of George Semlock, Robert Smith and Tamusla, occupants of the dwelling, police said.

Fire believed to have started from an overheated furnace did damage estimated at $8,000 to the Otto Drug Company store, in a one-story brick building at Ralston place and Beverly road, Mt. Lebanon, early today. A grocery in the same building was damaged slightly by smoke.

WELFARE FUND NEEDS $64,937

With subscriptions coming in from loyal Pittsburghers in all parts of the United States, the Welfare Fund received an additional $23,800 yesterday in its campaign for $1,520,248 to carry on much needed relief and assistance in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County.

Interesting among these out-of-town contributors is Mary Roberts Rinehart, well-known writer, who sent a generous contribution from Washington, D. C., to Mrs. Alexander Laughlin, of the Sewickley division, as her share in the Welfare Fund campaign. Contributions have also come from Pittsburghers in New York, Florida California and many other parts of the country. Though far away from the home town, these loyal citizens are doing their part to help the needy of the community.

The total which has been raised to date is $1,455,311. This leaves $64,937 yet to be raised. Workers in the campaign are making every effort to raise this amount, so that the goal will be reached by Wednesday noon, when the final meeting of the campaign will be held at the William Penn Hotel.

Joseph Dilworth, general campaign chairman, said:

"We wish to thank the citizens of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County for their generous support of this work. We need an additional $64,000 in order to raise the full budget of the Welfare Fund and are hoping that this amount will be received by tomorrow noon. Each of us, I am sure, will enjoy a happier Christmas because of the knowledge that many unfortunate people in the community will receive much needed care and assistance through the Welfare Fund."

John Bowers today was a new member of the West Homestead Borough Council, having been elected at a meeting of that body last night when Councilman J. N. Dean resigned. Bowers, a resident of the borough several years, ran for Borough Council at the November election and received the highest vote among the losing candidates.

Dean had served the borough as a councilman continuously since January, 1913. He recently moved his place of residence to Squirrel Hill.

BUDGET ACTION DELAYED WEEK

Absence of Councilmen at Blue Law Parley Holds Up Consideration of Finances

With the certainty that there will be no increase in city taxes and with the possibility of a small decrease, Council today is preparing to take action on the budget for 1931 submitted yesterday by Mayor Charles H. Kline.

Budget sessions probably will not start until next week, the delay being due chiefly to the fact that a councilmanic committee is scheduled to go to Philadelphia Thursday to discuss with that city's lawmakers the modification of Sunday "Blue Laws."

A special session will be held Thursday morning to clear the way for the budget, one of the principal matters of business being an ordinance that may turn back a half million dollars into the city's coffers and permit a slight tax reduction.

$500,000 AFFECTED

This is the ordinance requiring banks receiving city deposits to post bonds for security as is now required by the state, county and school board. The city is protected only by a $500,000 fund set up by itself, this being inadequate, according to City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley, to protect deposits that at times total $40,000,000 and rarely are less than $10,000,000.

In addition to looking to this bill for revenue, those hoping for a slight reduction in city taxes are awaiting the final report of the Board of Assessors. Mayor Kline, in his letter transmitting the budget to Council yesterday, predicted that while land valuations will remain virtually the same the valuations on buildings will show a $10,000,000 increase.

The budget as approved by Council last year was $27,675,564. The 1931 budget calls for the expenditure of $27,816,012, an increase of $140,500.

SALARIES RAISE TOTAL

While the routine departmental requests for equipment, supplies, repairs and other miscellaneous items have been reduced $350,000, increases in the wage and salary bills have boomed the general total. Most of this is in the Department of Public Safety because of police and fire wage increases and extension of service to annexed territory.

The Mayor requested 50 additional regular patrolmen. This will add about $90,000 to the payroll of that department.

Many improvement projects should be cared for by short-term bond issues, their length to be determined by the life of the proposed improvement, the Mayor suggested to Council.

Postman Jailed For Rifling Mail

Paul E. Stock, 35, of Fleury way, former mail carrier attached to the Squirrel Hill station, admitted stealing a letter containing $5 from the mails when arraigned in Federal Court today, and was sentenced to a year in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga.

KLINE MEETING DISCUSSED

Mayor Charles H. Kline and County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, who is also Republican county chairman, held a lengthy conference yesterday afternoon in Armstrong's office.

The conference gave rise to a lot of speculation among politicians. But if anything of import was discussed it was not for public consumption. After the conference Armstrong said:

"We discussed several matters. The city wants the county to take over the Smithfield Street, Twenty-second Street and Manchester bridges. They tried to sell them to us a year ago."

Asked if the speakership of the House was discussed, Armstrong said:

"We will call a caucus some time before the first of the year. The speakership will probably come up at that time."

It is customary for the county organization to indorse a candidate for the speakership at a caucus prior to the convening of the Legislature.

Woman Finds Her Stolen Jewels, Left at Door

When Mrs. Myra Robinson, proprietress of a rooming house at 856 Western avenue, answered the doorbell last night she found in the entrance a neatly wrapped package, containing jewelry valued at $200, which had been stolen a few hours earlier from her home. The jewelry was believed to have been stolen by two men who asked to look at a room.

DOWNTOWN OFFICE RAIDED

Thug Resembles One Sought For Previous Thefts; Purses Stolen at City-County Bldg.

Fifty dollars was the loot of a man who held up Miss Marie Marinett, a clerk in the office of the Howard Cleaning Company, at 135 Sixth street, in the Roosevelt Hotel, last night. The money was taken from a register.

The robber's description tallied with that of the one who had visited a dozen other downtown business establishments last month.

A Negro was sought by police today in connection with the theft of four purses from the closet in the office of the Department of Public Welfare, on the sixth floor of the City-County Building, late yesterday.

One, containing $25, belonged to Pauline McHugh, and another, containing $10, to Miss Bertha Lichnovsky, Welfare workers. Names of the other two owners were not learned by police.

Two men escaped with $30 after looting the cash register of the grocery of Frank Karpinski, of 205 South Main street, Sharpsburg, last night. Karpinski and his wife were driven into a back room, police said. Lieut. Sam Fair and Constable Frank Carritata gave chase, but failed to overtake the bandits.

J. C. Gordon, of 706 North Sheridan avenue, reported to police that two men held him up and robbed him of his watch and chain and $9 in cash while he was putting his car in his garage early today.

AIR-HOSE CASE GOES TO JURY

A jury of three women and nine men retired shortly before noon today to decide the fate of Louis Maracini, 21, of Munhall, tried under an unusual murder charge—that of causing a fellow workman's death by placing an air hose carrying 110 pounds pressure against his body.

Joseph Kubanye, Jr., 21, of 629 East Ninth street, Munhall, died November 19, 1929, in the Homestead Hospital, three days after being injured.

The case was heard before Visiting Judge Miles I. Potter, of Union and Snyder counties.

Maracini, in his own behalf, testified that he had applied the hose in play, intending nothing more serious than to startle his fellow workman at the Mesta Machine Company plant in Homestead. Many character witnesses testified in his behalf.

3 Places Cited In Liquor Charges

Three places were named in temporary liquor injunctions granted in Federal Court today by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker on complaint of Robert S. Krause, deputy prohibition administrator. Final hearings were set for January 6. The places and alleged proprietors are Campbell's Barbecue, near Library, Thomas F. Campbell; saloon, 3044 Preble avenue, Mike Verlihay; saloon rear 4913-15 Second avenue, Davie Jones.

Gets 6 Months in Bankruptcy Fraud

Pleading guilty to concealing $3,729.39 in cash from a receiver in bankruptcy, Fred Davali, former Wylie avenue jeweler, was sentenced to six months to the county jail today by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson in United States District Court.

Miniature 'Plea Court' Speeds Justice Here

The vogue for things miniature has reached Criminal Court.

A Tom Thumb courtroom is the latest; Presiding Judge George V. Moore, inventor. He calls it his plea room.

It has been fashioned in an antechamber between No. 3 and No. 4 courtrooms and is less than 20x20 feet square. A railing has been set up across the center of the room, behind which is a miniature dais on which the judge sits. A small desk forms the legal bench.

Here the judge will repair, with an assistant district attorney and an assistant clerk of courts, to take pleas of guilty in the innumerable trivial cases which heretofore clogged the work of selecting juries in the large assignment room, where Judge Moore customarily presides.

He is said to have acquired the idea from the miniature golf course and from Judge Henry H. Rowand's electrical ideas for speeding up the work of the court. Last year Judge Rowand put in loud speakers through which cases are called in the witness room, and an electrical signal system by which the crier is notified what jurors have been challenged.

SOVIET LEADER HOLDS 5-YEAR PLAN SUCCESS

Promises to Achieve Aims Ahead of Time, Sponsor Declares, Citing Gains

(In the following article Valerian V. Kuibyshev, vice president of the council of people's commissars and president of the state planning commission of the Soviet Union, gives the Soviet view of progress of the five-year industrialization plan in Russia.

Now more than two years old the attempt to enforce the five-year industrialization and communization of Russia and Russian institutions must be reckoned as one of the greatest social and economic experiments of all time. As the man who has been in charge, M. Kuibyshev perhaps is the best qualified to relate what has taken place.

The article is based on a statement made especially to the Associated Press.)

(Copyright, 1929, by the Associated Press. All Rights Reserved.)

MOSCOW, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—In two years of operation, Valerian V. Kuibyshev, president of the state planning commission, asserts, the Soviet five-year industrialization plan not only has succeeded beyond expectation, but has given every promise of completion within four years instead of five.

M. Kuibyshev, who is responsible for putting the five-year plan into operation, said:

ESTIMATES EXCEEDED

In an exhaustive report on the first two years of the plan's operation, which ended October 1, M. Kuibyshev presents figures to show an increase beyond the planned production estimates in every department mentioned; not in a single one he lists do the results come beneath what had been projected. He writes:

"The past two years' operation of the plan furnishes sufficient material both for verifying the reality of its provisions and for verifying the justice of the objections and doubts which the plan aroused among representatives of bourgeois economic thought. The past two years have revealed Piatiletka (as the plan is called) being exceeded in the most important sections of national economy."

OUTPUT IN BILLIONS

There follow figures showing Piatiletka's progress:

In two years, M. Kuibyshev says, total output in planned industries under Piatiletka is estimated at 29,338,000,000 rubles (about $14,690,000,000). He writes:

"The excess of fulfillment of Piatiletka for the first two years is particularly remarkable in the field of heavy industry.

"While Piatiletka provides in this field for 12,476,000,000 rubles, the actual output was 13,764,000,000 rubles.

FIGURES ON INDUSTRIES

"The extent to which actual output exceeds estimates may be gauged from the following figures:

"Steel — estimated 9,900,000 tons, output 10,200,000.

"Electrotechnical — estimated 588,000,000 rubles, output 781,000,000 rubles.

"Agricultural machinery — estimated 472,000,000 rubles, output 515,000,000 rubles.

AGRICULTURAL GAIN

M. Kuibyshev continues to say that building program figures are also far ahead of the Piatiletka estimates, and continues to a discussion of agriculture:

"A very great advance has been made in the field of agriculture. The sown area increased from 118,000,000 hectares in 1928-29 to 127,700,000 in 1929-30."

He states that, due to improved cultivation methods, the gross grain crop of this year was 86,500,000 tons against 71,700,000 tons in 1929, an increase of 20.6 per cent. Marketable grain produce, he said, was 32.6 per cent above Piatiletka provisions. Thus, he declares, the grain problem has been "fundamentally solved."

With regard to collective farming, he says that upwards of one-fifth of peasant households have joined in the collectives—that is, that more than 5,000,000 peasant households have rejected individual farming and have taken up collective farming.

Demand for 'Tickletoes' Keeps Doll Lady Busy

Dear Little Girls:

Only 24 more days until Christmas! Twenty-four days seems such a long, long time, but you all know that time flies and 24 days is only a little while at most. My, my! What a big job I have planned for myself for the only too few days between now and Christmas.

I have already taken care of several hundred little girls with "Tickletoes" dollies. I have letters from hundreds more who want them and every day the mailman brings me another big stack from little girls who want to know how to get a "Tickletoes." So you can rest assured that the Doll Lady is going to be the busiest person in Pittsburgh for, at least, four weeks.

Thank goodness I have plenty of "Tickletoes" dollies with me—blondes, brunettes, red-haired and raven black-haired dollies. Yes, I have some that have hair you might call Titian in color. They're all bright-eyed and smiling—all waiting for some little girl to take them home to adore and care for. "Tickletoes" wants lots of care and love. You know she's almost as big as a year-old baby and you can give her a bath just like you could your baby sister or brother—if you have one.

"Tickletoes" is unbreakable, has a rosy complexion, rubber arms and legs that bend just like yours did when you were a baby and she can play with her toes, suck her thumbs, clasp her hands, go to sleep and, best of all, she has three different voices.

It isn't going to be hard for any little girl to get "Tickletoes" for a playmate. You'll have to do something for me but mother and dad and sister will help you and the little I ask will not be at all hard to do. Hundreds of little girls have already gladly done what I asked them to do and now they have their "Tickletoes" dolly long before Christmas.

Here are names of some of the little girls who wrote to me last week:

Mildred Schunda, Florence Skarpeah, Virginia Dailey, Mary Minahan, Katie Pisacis, Nora Barnhart, Shirley Shafer, Mary Cornell, Helen Evans, Charlotte Davis, Mary Maloney, Anna Sutey, Nancy Cornelius, Kitty McCaffrey and Dorothy Erskine.

Now, little girls, send in the Doll Lady coupon today, and by return mail I'll tell you how you can get my wonder doll, "Tickletoes," all for yourself and before Christmas. Goodbye for today, the

SUN-TELEGRAPH DOLL LADY.

SCHOOL BLAST BURNS 5 BOYS

AKRON, O., Dec. 2.—(AP.)—An explosion believed to have originated in a gas tank wrecked the basement of the Bath Consolidated School, eight miles northeast of here, and seriously injured five boy pupils who were preparing for a basketball game.

The explosion occurred shortly after classes at the combined grade and high school had been dismissed and only the five boys and a class of 13 girls in the gymnasium were in the building. The girls and their instructor escaped injury.

The injured brought to Akron hospitals, are: Jack McClausland, 15, and William Hazer, 15, in critical condition; Charle Codding, Kenneth Powers and Howard McKisson, 15. The latter three are seriously burned.

Fire that followed the explosion was put out by hand extinguishers wielded by school officials. No estimate of damage was given.

GREAT NEW TUBE Makes new Radios out of old

Hundreds of families enjoy new radio-treat . . . 4-pillar tubes transform their radios. Read what some of them say.

NOW . . . in 4-pillar Eveready Raytheon Tubes . . . the first and only real advance in modern tube-design! Four pillars to anchor their fragile elements in place, instead of the usual two.

Four rigid supports . . . one at each corner of a square . . . holding the elements firm and fast. Protecting them . . . guarding their accurate adjustment against the dangerous bumps of shipment. And against the racking vibration of powerful dynamic speakers! In old-fashioned tubes, with their two supports, these are very real dangers.

Words can never tell you the amazing difference a set of 4-pillar tubes can make. Reading about them, hearing them praised by users, even seeing an electrical test of them in your radio-dealer's store . . . none of these can show you, like your own radio and your own ears, what 4-pillar tubes can mean to you.

Free Home-Demonstration

You can try a set of 4-pillar tubes at home, without obligation! National Carbon Company, Inc., has arranged with Eveready dealers to give you a free home-demonstration. Put in a complete set of these tubes, then put your radio through its paces! Listen to the difference, in tone, clarity, lifelike realism, and freedom from annoying tube noises. Give them a critical test. If you aren't amazed and delighted, in other words, if you don't want these tubes . . . you don't owe a cent! The home-test is free.

If your present tubes are a year or more old, you can't afford to miss this opportunity! Don't miss it anyhow . . . call the nearest Eveready Raytheon dealer now.

Notice the four strong pillars. With this solid foundation, the many fragile parts in the tube can be assembled with watch-making accuracy — and they can never "wiggle, wobble, jiggle, slip, or slide!" When buying one tube, or an entire set, look for—insist on—4-pillar Eveready Raytheon Tubes.

In old-fashioned tubes, the many delicate parts have only a two-legged foundation — like the goal-posts on a football field. Two supports instead of four! Jolts, bumps, vibration from dynamic speakers — all can impair their vital accuracy. That means uncertain results . . . old-fashioned reception!

EVEREADY RAYTHEON
Trade-marks

"Believe me, the fellow that fixed my radio with Eveready Raytheon Tubes fixed me up right! He just the same as put me in a new radio for the price of the tubes."

Adam T. Meyer, Jr.,
193 Castle Shannon Blvd., Mt. Lebanon, Pa.

"I have tried all makes of radio tubes in my radio set, but not until I bought a set of 4-pillar Eveready Raytheons did I know how enjoyable radio could really be. With Eveready Raytheons, I can get stations that I never heard before. And, best of all, they seem louder and clearer."

Edith Simons,
5834 Morrowfield Ave., Squirrel Hill.

"Talk about distance. My old set was so run-down I could hardly get local stations. I absolutely could not afford a new radio. The local Eveready dealer suggested a new set of Eveready Raytheon 4-pillar tubes. I purchased the tubes. Would you believe that I'm getting stations I never heard before, without an additional cent for repairs?"

COUNCIL TO ACT ON BUS PLAN

Council late today will consider a report from the Traction Conference Board declaring that the Pittsburgh Railways Company is considering abandonment of Mt. Washington Route No. 33. This route does not enter the triangle, its terminal being the foot of the Monongahela Incline.

The company, according to the report, suggests the use of motor coaches or buses on this route to replace the cars. It is planning an application to the Public Service Commission to permit abandonment of the line.

The question came up in discussion of the improvement of Woodruff avenue as an extension of Saw Mill Run boulevard. The company maintains a double track along this street. To change it to conform with the city's improvement plans would cost $72,000, according to the Traction Conference Board's report, with an additional $58,000 for further necessary reconstruction.

34 Quarantine Cases Reported

The City Department of Health today reports these new cases in quarantine: Scarlet fever 14, diphtheria 2, mumps 2, measles 2, chickenpox 8, pneumonia 5 and erysipelas 1.

SALE OF SEALS AIDS NEEDY

Two hundred men and women, suffering from tuberculosis, were treated without charge by the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh at the League Hospital during 1930, it was reported today. Ability of the hospital to give these treatments is ascribed to the 1929 sale of Christmas Seals.

In urging purchase of these seals by Pittsburghers, campaign leaders point out that 163 men and women paid in full for their treatments during the same period, while 20 others paid part of their costs.

An open-air school for children, carried on in conjunction with the hospital, offered free medical attention to 31 children. These students received, it is said, attention which they could not have had otherwise, for lack of funds.

Claiming that no sufferer has ever been turned from the door of the hospital because of poverty, the League is urging its friends to subscribe again this year, that the record may be sustained.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Bud to Share Honors at Luncheon

During this week and next debutantes will have time for the more intimate social events now that the Thanksgiving hectic whirl is over. In the days remaining before Christmas week, the climax of the social spectacle, there'll be many luncheons and small teas.

One luncheon which I've just heard of will honor a debutante of this year, Francis Kerr, whose engagement has caused many a flutter in the social world, and a debutante of the past season, Jane Sloan. Mrs. Boyd McKown and Mrs. Charles M. E. Succop will be joint hostesses at the affair, to be given in the popular new Twentieth Century Club December 9.

* * *

"Garrick Gaieties" and "June Moon" attracted hundreds and hundreds of folks despite the wintry nipping air and the rival attraction of Paderewski.

Attend Theaters

Among the early arrivals at the Nixon was Suzanne Trimble, wearing a flame chiffon gown and a wrap of ermine. Mrs. Felix B. Snowdon chose a black velvet gown and a black velvet wrap, and Mrs. H. H. McClintic, Jr., chose cherry red crepe. Particularly smart was the afternoon gown worn by Mrs. W. A. Duckham. It was of wine-red crepe, fashioned with a peplum banded in kolinsky, with full, flowing sleeves. Mrs. T. M. Jones, III, chose a vivid gown of violet satin. And I believe I had a glimpse of the Gordon Kings and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Childs, III. Talking with Mrs. Jones was Mrs. Theodore F. Smith in black velvet.

I caught a glimpse of the J. Henry O'Neills, with Mrs. O'Neill in a smart gown of gold tissue having brief sleeves banded with kolinsky, with which she wore a wrap of muskrat. I also noticed the Oliver Kaufmanns. Mrs. Kaufmann chose a gown of white crepe with a peplum at the hipline, and a wrap of black velvet and ermine.

The smilax-hung walls and flower-banked boxes of the Lyric Theater of Baltimore, was the scene of the first Monday German of the Bachelor's Cotillion last night at which 62 debutantes, including two girls from Pittsburgh, Helen Louise Tunnell and Elizabeth Spencer Murray, made their debuts. The gold hangings, marble benches, and crystal candelabra decorating the stage were used when their grandmothers curtseyed to society.

Southern Cotillion

Upon their arrival at the ancient Lyric, the debutantes claimed their flowers, and preceded by footmen laden with bouquets, they entered the ballroom. The buds' flowers were pinned in front of the boxes. And the buds were received by the wives of the governors of the cotillion, who are Mrs. D. Stewart Ridgely, Mrs. T. G. Pitts, Mrs. Carlyle Barton, Mrs. Alexander C. Nelson, Mrs. Morris Whitridge, Mrs. Robertson G. Griswold, Mrs. H. Warren Buckler, Mrs. J. Hall Pleasants and Mrs. Charles Morton Stewart, Jr.

Helen, who's the daughter of the E. Paull Tunnells, was escorted by Dr. Thomas L. Shearer and Theodore Marburg, former United States ambassador to Spain, and was chaperoned by her mother. She wore a lovely dress of shimmering white satin and point d'Alencon lace, and carried lilies of the valley. Her mother chose black satin with diamonds for jewels, and had orchids.

Simple Gowns

Elizabeth Spencer Murray, daughter of the James D. Murrays, of Coraopolis Heights, wore black satin and tulle and carried pink roses. Her partner was John Wethered Carroll, of Chestertown, Md., and her chaperon, Mrs. A. S. Murray.

And among other Pittsburgh folks at the cotillion were Mrs. J. Howard McFeely, Mrs. Julian Burdick and Mrs. H. Raymond Hilliard.

Before the cotillion Helen and Lillian Newlin, of Philadelphia, shared honors at a dinner given by Miss Mary B. Shearer, whose home was decorated in white and green and flowers galore. Mrs. A. S. Murray gave a dinner for Elizabeth before the cotillion, too.

For many years it was customary for the debs to wear white only for the cotillion, but this year etiquette admitted colored frocks.

Tomorrow, Mrs. Lewis Clyde Bixler, of Sheridan avenue is to entertain a group of friends at a tea in the Twentieth Century Club from 4 until 6 o'clock. Her two daughters, Emily Evans Bixler and Carolyne Bixler, are receiving with their mother.

Tea for Tomorrow

Asked to assist the hostess are Mrs. Stuart Nye Hutchison, Mrs. Charles A. Fisher, Mrs. George Paull, Mrs. William M. Robinson, Mrs. John Frederick Tim, Mrs. Charles A. Carpenter, Miss Mary Porter Ross, Mrs. Edward Clyde Leslie, Mrs. Charles W. Jennings, Mrs. David T. Marvel, Anita Tim, Josephine Stieren, Elizabeth N. Scully and Mrs. Kenneth M. O'Connell Family Banshee Lovely Red-Haired Girl

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Elliott O'Donnell, member of an old Irish family who has devoted a lifetime to the study of ghosts, said in a speech here he had seen hundreds of ghosts and heard others. He said:

"I have spoken to them, but never have I received a reply, nor have I ever heard of anyone doing so."

"I heard a banshee the night before my uncle died, crying outside his house. I have seen it. Strange to say, it is a beautiful girl with red gold hair. Most banshees are so, although some are old women.

"There aren't many banshees in Ireland now because there are so few old Celtic families, but the O'Donnell banshee still appears to herald the approaching death of a member of my family."

Education Is Philosophy Of Life at Work, Martin Tells Century Club

Education is a philosophy of life at work, the self-perpetuation and development of a culture of some kind, the living reproduction of the way in which a community or an age has come to give meaning to its work, Dr. Dean Everett Martin told the Twentieth Century Club yesterday in his lecture on "What Is An Educated Person?"

Today we are confused as to what life is, are not sure we have a culture and don't know what education is, he went on. Almost anything passes for education—slogans, advertisements—all without effort and without purpose.

He used to think, Dr. Martin said, that ignorance was an empty vacuum, but years have convinced him that ignorance is anything but that, that it is a militant and active thing and that the ignorant person keeps an idea in his head like a watch dog to bark at other ideas and keep them out. Education has come to be mere habit formation, not insight, not maturity of mind, but tricks learned and cues given, he declared.

Dr. Martin compared the condition of ancient Greece at the close of the Persian War and America at the close of the World War, saying that the Greeks had sat down and thought as to how best they might use the new responsibility of world power.

Two dangers menace education today—humanitarianism, or emphasis on the emotions, and practical persons who want a short cut to knowledge through stories of philosophy, outlines of history and five-foot shelves of books, he said.

A newspaper person is the most self-centered person in the world; most other people have outside interests; newspaper writers not only live their work, but they talk shop in and out of season and, until the last few years, had very few other interests. So said Ray Sprigle, city editor of the Post-Gazette, in addressing the Women's Press Club yesterday afternoon. Both newspapers and newspapermen are changing in type, and the college man, once a rarity, even a curiosity on a newspaper, is now quite common. The newspaper game has ceased to be a game and is now a business, he said.

Miss Nadjegeda Kirloff, Russian engineer, who is now established in Pittsburgh, told a little of her work, and Miss Dorothy Lockhart, personal representative of Leslie Howard, discussed "Berkeley Square," which is to be at the Alvin next week.

"The Spirit of the Modern Drama" is derived from the spirit of Ibsen, Dr. Louis K. Anspacher stated in his address before the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club yesterday. Dr. Anspacher contrasted the old theater and its emphasis on plot and situation with the present dramatic ideal which emphasizes character.

LOAN CORNER DENIED BY U. S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(INS.)—Official denial was made of a story emanating from Paris that the United States and France, possessing most of the world's gold, had tacitly agreed not to make loans to those countries that are increasing their armament.

Secretary of State Stimson said there was no such agreement. He also said that Ambassador Gibson's vote in the preparatory commission for disarmament at Geneva last week had been widely misinterpreted in some European quarters. Gibson voted with the French concerning the inviolability of former treaty pledges, and some German commentators interpreted it unfavorably.

STATE BALANCE DROPS $200,000

HARRISBURG, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—The state of Pennsylvania closed November with a balance of $46,597,825 in the state treasury, a drop of more than $200,000 from the balance of a month ago.

The balance a year ago was $61,302,662, heavy drains on the motor fund to meet road paving obligations dropping that fund from $22,012,169 a year ago to its present balance of $781,957. With a balance of $35,087,058 the general fund at the close of business Saturday was approximately $3,500,000 above the balance a year ago.

JULIA SANDERSON AND FRANK CRUMIT MARK YEAR ON AIR TONIGHT

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit hop into their blue roadster at Longmeadow, Mass., today for their weekly pilgrimage to CBS—a four-hour drive. This trip has more significance than the 31 preceding trips for it marks one year of teamwork broadcasting on the part of Mr. and Mrs. Crumit. Appropriately enough they'll sing together, "I Want to Go Where You Go" when the program opens on WJAS at 8.

* * *

At their country estate of Pawprints, the Crumits have a garden that consumes much of their time. However, Frank (Will) registered himself in the last town census as a bond salesman.

Spooky Clark, of Pittsburgh, clinches the fullback berth on Ted Husing's all-America team chosen from players he has seen in action with CBS this season.

Of Spooky, Ted says:

"Although weighing only 165 pounds, Clark is one of the best line smashers in the country. His bullet-like thrusts are a joy to watch, for if he can't find a hole he will make one. He is a throw-back to the old school of line plungers, who hit the forward wall with their noses about an inch off the ground."

Ted's other backfield selections consist of Carideo and Schwartz, of Notre Dame, and Crickard, of Harvard.

The Loudspeaker -:- By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The broadcasters are a little nearer to the courtrooms of actual murder trials as a result of the airing of "The Trial of Jeremiah Ware."

The successful broadcast of the first fictional murder trial in the history of radio must have gone far toward convincing the legal world that microphones need not be the merciless instruments of persons bent on a melodramatic holiday, that the airing of actual courtroom procedure need not violate judicial dignity.

* * *

"The Trial of Vivienne Ware" disclosed three unusual radio personalities in Senator Wagstaff, George Gordon Battle and Ferdinand Pecora who were heard in the important roles of presiding judge, counsel for the defense and district attorney. Not only did they preserve accurately the traditions of justice but they were alert to the microphonic opportunities of their parts, even making short adlib remarks which added to the realism of the play. Their voices were in effective contrast, and their broadcasting personalities were fresh and vivid. I wouldn't be surprised that a good job will always be open to them at the studios.

Three Noted Lawyers Convincing as Actors

So convincing were the three legal big shots of the radio trial that the average listener must have placed himself figuratively in the witness chair, must have had the thought that as a witness he would not have enjoyed the battering examination and cross-examination of Pecora and Battle, even though he might have considered himself that Senator Wagstaff was the fairest and most considerate of judges.

* * *

With these three men heading the cast, "The Trial of Vivienne Ware" seems more than ever to this observer to have marked a new epoch in radio entertainment. At any event, it was the talk of the town the past week. In millions of homes, on the streets, in the subways, in barber shops, indeed wherever people congregated, the startling novelty of the trial and the unusually dramatic presentation given it were the subjects of comment.

This department heard time and again what a vivid pleader Battle proved on the air, how forceful and authoritative Pecora appeared as the prosecutor and how authoritative and impartial Wagner sounded to the armchairs.

* * *

Radio drama has born the bane of broadcasters. Its successful production on the air has been a problem with them from the earliest days of the microphone.

"The Trial of Vivienne Ware" has opened to them new avenues of radio technique. It has shown them that with first class actors and with a first class script the eye is not essential to an appealing dramatic broadcast. It should stimulate them to even greater efforts.

If you totalled up all the amounts you spend on odds and ends at Christmas-time giving presents to the various members of the family, you will find that you ordinarily spend more than enough to make a down payment on a General Electric FULL RANGE Radio. Why not combine the family present into one great big splendid gift this Christmas?

A General Electric Radio will give to each member of your family more genuine enjoyment and pleasure, not only at Christmas-time but throughout the year, than they could possibly get from the ordinary Christmas present. Just think of the thrill they will get when the FULL RANGE Sensitivity of the General Electric Radio brings them in stations and programs that they have been unable to get before. How glad they will be to find that overlapping between stations has been banished by FULL RANGE Selectivity and don't forget that each program will take on added beauty as a result of the life-like tone fidelity with extra richness and greater musical quality of FULL RANGE Tone.

To help you decide this question, go to your local G-E Radio Dealer. Ask him to give you a complete demonstration of FULL RANGE Radio, then examine the cabinets and discuss the whole matter with him. You will be surprised for how little you can give this wonderful gift.

COMEDIES AND REVUE AS SEEN THROUGH CRITICS' GLASSES

Garrick Gaieties Laugh In a Well-Bred Way At Our Follies

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

MIRACLES still happen. Last night Pittsburghers saw a revue without a bedroom blackout. No husband coming home late, no lover hid in the cupboard, no ultra-violet kimono or smoking revolver! Incredible! Go see the Garrick Gaieties yourself amd be convinced.

George Seibel

Those Garrick Gaieties at the Nixon are the Theater Guild's idea of a frolicsome evening. Within five minutes we have seen G. Bernard Shaw wiggle through a dance, while Eugene O'Neill and Ferenc Molnar sing the verses of a ditty in which Pirandello and Dostoevsky get honorable mention. This is high jinks for highbrows. Well, aren't we all?

The audience is even expected to know something of history. In one of the skits Washington and Grant are on the stage at the same time with Mary Queen of Scots. The intelligent sophomore knows that this is anachronistic. There is where the laugh comes in. But we take our anachronisms seriously.

And when Albert Carroll does his very clever impersonations of a play doctor to fix it up for a $4.40 or $5.50 show, "It may rain when least expected" is better poetry and better sense than a dozen throw songs.

This operetta is the best-acted thing of all, except "The Lunts Revive the Guard-man," which Albert Carroll wrote and in which he plays Lynn Fontanne with rich repressed passion, while Otto Hulett is equally graphic as the disgusted Alfred.

But maybe "A Famous Lawyer at Home" was even better acted, with Philip Loeb as the lawyer, Rosalind Russell as the wife, and Imogene Coca as the maid.

There are moments in the Gaieties that aren't so torrid and it is a strain on the cerebellum to get quotations from Gray's "Elegy" and to identify the Babylonian B'Nai B'Rith, but after all we must use our brains sometime, and it is refreshing to see a chorus who have human faces as well as shapely figures. In fact, we didn't see the figures of this chorus at all.

We were too busy trying to figure out whether the skit of "The Three Guardsmen" was written by Robert Browning or Ferenc Molnar. Next time we'll take along a classical dictionary.

THE VOGELSANG SKIT

Anticipation had eyes and ears open for the prize sketch of Henry W. Vogelsang, dealing with a Pittsburgh theme. "The People's Choice" is played in the City Hall, and deals with His Honor's harmless obsession by photographers. The County Commissioners are exhibited snoring. That looks like a coat of whitewash, for it is one thing of which they have never been accused. Vogelsang's sketch is full of points, not too barbed, and was very well received.

It showed what the Gaieties might be with a little judicious lese majeste. There was a mighty clever and catchy duet in which King George and Queen Mary are satirized. Rosalind Russell and Albert Carroll did it to the king's and the queen's taste. But why satirize the rulers of England who are far away and have done no particular harm? Washington is nearer than London? And much funnier, as Will Rogers knows.

There is a capital satire of Grover Whalen, who introduces his traffic regulations in Wanamaker's Department Store when he goes back to work there. But Grover Whalen is almost as far back as Grover Cleveland or Grover Alexander. Satire must be hot from the griddle. Ask Aristophanes—he knows.

THE ROSE OF ARIZONA

That requirement is fulfilled by "The Rose of Arizona," closing number of the second part. It is American musical comedy as viewed through the Guild eyebrows. And it takes off the absurdities and inanities, the stereotyped slush and lollipops, so perfectly that it would require only a simplicity complex.

'TIS TO LAUGH AS PITT HEROINE CHASES AN ELUSIVE SOUL

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Pauline MacLean, leading woman of the George Sharp Players, is pursuing an elusive "soul of true love" on the Pitt stage this week. It is a "soul" that plays Len Chaney tricks with her. It is really there all the time in the presence of her first husband. But it takes three acts, a boarder and a swell-headed vaudeville performer to make her see it.

Miss MacLean tousles up her hair, puts on a red dress and steps into the role of a Russian dancer who finds herself only a housewife in America. She tires of her husband, who made love to her in six languages back in Russia, and wavers between the vaudeville performer and the boarder.

GETS WHAT SHE WANTS

This happens in the amusing comedy, titled "She Got What She Wanted." And the title is okay for she does get what she wants. Only before that she breaks dishes, gets hysterical and is left waiting in subways and railroad stations by an admirer who never keeps an appointment but always shows up a month or a year later with a brand new fib.

The husband, wife and star-boarder angle has a prominent spot in the plot. The boarder gets all the "breaks" and so the boarder becomes the husband and the husband becomes the boarder. Yet the quest for the "soul of true love" continues.

The play, in addition to all its comedy lines and situations, drags in some melodramatics. On the sideline there is the underworld racket, with a murder somewhere off stage.

IS HE GOOD?

Leading Man Paul McGrath starts out as a meek bookworm with horn-rimmed spectacles and ends up as a dashing man about town and a gallant Romeo. Robert Fiske is seen as the boarder who becomes a husband. And Hugh Banks spends his time bragging about how good a vaudeville performer he is. "t is part of his role, of course.

Also Mabel Kroman is present in that boisterous way of hers. Alice Ann Baker makes a brief appearance as a bird woman and then goes to Coney Island, or maybe home. And John Winthrop comes along as a policeman with a broad Irish brogue.

The play is an evening of fun: an evening of entertainment.

'HI, HO, EVERYBODY' ACADEMY BURLESQUE

"Hi, Ho, Everybody," with the "Dutch" comic, Joe Freed, and Connie St. Clair, blonde singer and dancer, in featured roles, is the current attraction in the Academy. Heading the vaudeville part of the bill are Stewart and Gardner, steppers. "White Cargo," featured sketch in "Hi, Ho, Everybody," calls for a representation of South Sea dancing girls. Principals of the company include Johnny Gilmore, Pat Kearney, Murray Green, Chickie Wells and Florence Naomi. Nora Ford, held over from last week, entertains with songs and patter.

'June Moon,' in Alvin, Is Comedy of Mush And Sophistication

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"June Moon," wise-cracking comedy about the song-writing industry, with a plot as sentimental as the mushy lyrics and obvious music that are the life-blood of New York's Tin-Pan Alley, despite the veneer of blase sophistication that motivates the play's structure, is the Alvin's contribution to the theatrical gayety of the week. And it is gayety, indeed, this joint work of Ring Lardner and George S. Kaufman, as a numerous audience—numerous considering the degree of temperature prevailing—discovered at the first performance last night.

You'll love it. You'll laugh at the brash impudence of its superior-minded city people in their dealings with a sap from Sichenectady, who quits his job with G.E. to become a lyric writer, but you'll love the innocence of the sap.

BEGINS ON TRAIN

You'll love it from the moment he becomes bold enough to strike up an acquaintance with a girl aboard a train, through all his experiences, until he again becomes bold and tells the gold digger who is "taking him" that he is through and then takes the little girl he met on the train, with the prospects bright that they will live happily ever after.

And you'll love—well, greatly admire, anyway—the bored Moxie, piano player extraordinary, seemingly not played at all, but lived by Harry Rosenthal, who sees the sap as something too good for the fate he is heading into amd does the right thing at the right time to change the situation amd make the comedy as old-fashioned as the hills even though much of its speech is the flip quip that is as modern as tomorrow. A real bright spot in "June Moon" is this Rosenthal chap and the way he can cause a piano to do its full duty is just too good—not "too bad."

PARTS ALL WELL-PLAYED.

Elaine Temple is cast in the role of the little girl who attracts the attention of the sap first—and last—and no mistake has been made. Thomas Gillen, one can well believe, must have known someone somewhere some time, just as gullible and innocent and dumb and likeable as the sap he portrays. He could hardly do it as well otherwise, even with the aid of Mr. Lardner's ingenuous lines.

Edith Van Cleve does the best work, perhaps, in the cast supporting Mr. Rosenthal, who is featured. She is the wife of a composer who hasn't written a hit since his master-piece, "Paprika," and she is properly bitter as a consequence, and her stale of mind is reflected in sharp comments, biting stings of comedy that are perfectly timed and intoned as if they were final gasps of despairing futility.

Frank Otto, as her husband; Ruth Abbott as his gold-digging sister-in-law; John Daly Murphy, who is only a window cleaner, but who makes his individual hit; Rosa Hertz, as another composer, and funny; Fred Irving Lewis and Adeline Ogilvie, all do excellent work also.

A NEW KIND OF HERO!

Duke Garson stemmed from the gangster-ridden underworld of the city. Suave, self-contained, steely-eyed, he was always a mystery to Connie—who fought her rising admiration for this man who "saved plenty of lives by advising crooks not to kill when they were sure to be caught." No criminal himself, Duke knew the inside of every racket, was known and loved and feared by the big and little shots of the underworld. He was fascinating—even if he was definitely bad, as Connie sometimes suspected.

THINGS WORTH SAVING FOR

An enterprising young Pittsburgh woman, a secretary, opened an account with us in December 1928. By June 1930 she has saved the full amount required for a six weeks trip through England, France and Switzerland. Wouldn't you like to do this too?

"They're Changing Guard at Buckingham Palace"

You are there watching them . . . The red coats! The shining helmets! The trumpet calls! . . . Yes—you. You're seeing England!—the thing you've yearned for, dreamed of, all your life!.. your trip abroad! . . . And it's all been made possible because you looked ahead—planned—saved.

Saving is one of the happiest—yes, and easiest—things you can do, when you're looking forward to the realization of some deep desire. Just a little, put by systematically, regularly. And, as it accumulates—usually faster than you ever expected—you see your dream shape itself detail by detail right up to the moment of its realization.

Let us help you make Your Trip to Europe come true. Open an account now and let it draw interest at 4 per cent compounded semi-annually. Start saving TODAY.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

There Are Just as Many Bad Women as Men

Mother told her all men were evil—

And to avoid 'em as she would the devil—

So what will poor Pearlie do?

Personally, I think there should be a special place for mammas like that! And I'm going to make some of my meanest remarks, with the pious hope that they hit where they make her the maddest!

"Dear Sally—

"I'm so unhappy, and I wish you would help me. If you don't, I don't know what I'll do. I'm just beginning to get grown up, and I'm scared.

"My trouble is no secret. A boy just kissed me for the first time in my life . . . and I hate him for it. But what can I do? I'm afraid that they will all try that when I really am grown up, and—well, I'm just scared, that's all. I wish that I could stay a little girl always.

Hates Men

"Mother has taught me ever since I was eight years old that I should never respect any boy, because they're things of evil, and will always try to take advantage of you. When I was 13 I began to really hate them. I guess that was because my mother did.

"I am only 15 now, but I lost my baby ways early, and I am large for my age, too, and I have been brought up to think grown up and act grown up. And I have to do things that most girls don't have to do . . . to take care of an invalid father, and two small sisters, wash for a family of five, cook and go to school, while mother works. I am in second year high now.

"Well, not so long ago, a boy moved into the flat upstairs, who was 18. When he moved there, mother got to bragging about me, and said I was 17, and this boy, who was standing by, heard her.

"Well, I got the idea that he was different from what mother said all boys were. He seemed like a gentleman, and my hatred of boys vanished somewhat when I began to know him. But it's all back now, because he is the boy who kissed me. So I guess mother was right, after all.

Wears Wedding Ring

"For about two weeks, things went along fine. Jim and I studied together, played golf together and swam together. And mother seemed to be kind of glad to have him around. She had thought that I would never like a boy, and would grow up to be a doctor or a lawyer, or something like that.

"Then one night no one was home, and Jim and I sat doing our home work, and suddenly he got up and came over to my table and bent down, before I knew what was in his mind, and kissed me. I was so surprised that I could hardly speak. I slapped him. Or rather I gave him a black eye, having a lot of strength from exercising and being athletic.

"He was surprised, and I ordered him out of the house. I have not talked to him since. And all my hatred for boys has come back, not only from what my mother has told me of them, but from what I know now, from the way this one acted.

"The boys at school have nothing to do with me, because they say I am 'frozen,' but how do I know that they won't try the same thing that this one did, sometime? I even wear a wedding ring—my mother's idea—to protect myself from them, and make them think I'm already married. Is this right?

"Please help me. I'm so upset. I want to know what to do, I wish I didn't have to grow up.

"PEARL."

What'll you do?

Wipe the fear out of your eyes and the hate out of your heart, and laugh away all the nasty nightmares that your mother has bred in you, honey. She may be a great mother in every other respect, but she's terribly wrong in her attitude toward men.

Aren't some men bad? Sure they are. And so are some women. Just as many boys are ruined by women as there are girls ruined by men. When it comes to devilment, neither sex has anything on the other.

A Natural Impulse

But love itself isn't bad, little girl.

It isn't wrong for a boy to want to kiss a pretty girl—

It isn't wrong for a pretty girl to want to be kissed.

These impulses are as natural and inevitable as the rising of sap in the spring, as the budding of flowers. They are a part of the same great mystery of growth and birth—and your life will be a sad and sour mess if you don't feel them.

Which doesn't mean that you should want to kiss every boy or allow any old boy to kiss you. But you can keep yourself sweet and rare without hating the impulsive Jims who'd like to love you. Indeed, if you're a normal youngster, you should be dreaming of love yourself, and getting ready for its great adventure.

As for Mama's cute idea of giving you a wedding ring to wear to school . . . gimme air! I never cease marveling at what thoughts a "good woman" can think, and the stunts she can pull in the name of righteousness!

Throw away your ring, little girl. And throw away your fears with it. Laugh, and live, and love . . . and thank God that He invented the grand old game.

As for Mama—if she gets mad, tell her to write me about it! Will I answer? Wild horses couldn't keep me from it!

FAY KING

By FAY KING

The problem of the unemployed is receiving attention everywhere. We are very glad of this, of course.

But there is also the problem of the employed to be considered.

Many of the employed would be only too glad to spend and help along the return of prosperity, but they have no assurance as to how long they may continue to be employed.

Therefore, if they have a little money saved, they do not feel that they should risk spending it and be without funds if they should find themselves suddenly among the unemployed. Wherever possible employers should make workers feel secure.

Many in jobs are taking salary cuts. Will this be forgotten, and a return to normal pay be given reluctantly—or as a raise?

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Love's Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Gets Chance to Send Barb Philip Veritzen's Way

There was something in Veritzen's eyes akin to the sardonic expression which twisted his lips as Mary told young Mr. Cameron that she would have to ask me before granting some request of the young talkie star's, and I stiffened as if some blow, expected, but unaccountably delayed, had struck me at last. It was time, I decided, for me to aim at Philip Veritzen the shaft of warning I had planned when I first was convinced that he was responsible for the private detective who had trailed us on our visit to Robert Savarin's home in the Catskills, and that Mary was the objective of the espionage.

But it was a smiling, indulgent face that I turned upon my husband's lovely young niece. It was no part of my plan that young Mr. Cameron or Edith Fairfax should suspect anything lay beneath the surface of the answer I meant to give Mary's request.

"Yes, dearest," I said, encouragingly.

Mary was plainly using her histrionic ability. With pretty blushing deference she turned toward her dinner partner.

"I'm sure you could tell Auntie about it better than I could," she said.

Young Mr. Cameron's reply was prompt and courteous enough, but his slightly lifted eyebrows told me that he thought he suddenly had been transported back to the late seventies.

"I'd like to drive Miss Mary up to a place I know in Westchester for breakfast tomorrow," he said.

"About that."

"I am sorry, I don't see how I can possibly spare the time," I said after a pause, as though I were debating the question. "I am so behind with my Christmas shopping. Are you engaged also tomorrow?" I turned to Lillian.

With the question I gave her one of our private little signals which meant, "Answer no!"

"Made!" Have a heart! You know what I'm up against tomorrow and the next day and the day after. I have a young daughter just home from school for the holidays," she explained to Mr. Cameron, "and every minute I have is engaged three times over."

"How would I do?" Edith Fairfax struck in, and I could not help feeling that her interference was a pose meant only to annoy me. "I can't think of anything I'd like better than to breakfast at 'some place in Westchester' about noon. And now that my partner has returned to work for a few days, I think I shall give myself a holiday."

"Sorry, Edith," I said promptly, "but you look altogether too young and pretty to enact the role of chaperon suitably."

"But I am neither young nor pretty," Mr. Veritzen said with a smile which I guessed cost him something. "And I, too, am willing to breakfast at Westchester. Aren't your rules elastic enough to permit me to chaperon Miss Mary?"

It was the wide open door for which I had wished, the opportunity to let him know we were guarding Mary without my being compelled to have a private interview with him on the subject. I turned toward him deferentially, my eyes looking straight into his.

"I am so sorry," I said, "but I cannot possibly relax my rules. There are special reasons, which I cannot go into now, but in which Mary is even more deeply interested than I, why we have made a compact never to permit her appearance outside the house without the company of either Mrs. Underwood, Mrs. Bickett or myself."

Mr. Veritzen had almost perfect poise, but I saw a tiny venemous glint far back in his eyes.

"How interesting!" he said slowly. "Is this—arrangement—a permanent one?"

"I sincerely hope not." I returned. "It depends, however, upon—developments. It really is rather a romantic story, but I cannot say anything more about it now."

Had he understood my real meaning? Did he realize that I knew he was the employer of the private detective who had harried us, and the reason for the espionage?

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, December 3

An eventful day, and one notable for peculiar or intriguing circumsances, may be presaged from the ruling lunar and mutual aspects. Affairs may take on the hue of secrecy, subtlety or conspiracy, mainly in connection with large combinations or secret bodies. Elderly persons or institutions may be disposed to lend substantial assistance or advice, which should promote the interests solidly. But it is urged that precaution be used in signing all writings, and that a tendency to rash and impetuous words or deeds be subdued. Personal contacts will be lively.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of singular, unusual or intriguing affairs in which the element of intrigue, expediency or subtlety may enter. Negotiations with large or secret bodies of a diplomatic or strategic nature may thrive, and elderly persons and old institutions may render substantial assistance.

A child born on this day should be clever, shrewd and skillful in many lines. It should be practical and successful, though quick, rash, impulsive and aggressive.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Too Many Wives

No man who is married to a thoroughly modern, up-to-date woman need envy King Solomon or the former Sultan of Turkey. He HAS a whole harem—and at one-thousandth the price!

* * *

If the modern girl is not much of a wife, it is because she tries to be TOO MANY wives!

* * *

The old-fashioned woman was content to be a cook, a comforter and the mother of a man's children. Just ONE wife—which is not enough for any man.

* * *

The modern woman wants to be ALL a man's wives; his playmate, soul-mate and yoke-mate. Which is too much for any woman.

* * *

She feels that the hand that rocks the cradle and manipulates the waffle-iron should also drive her husband to the station in the flivver, tap a typewriter all day, and if necessary help bring home the bacon.

* * *

She wants to lighten his burdens, by grubbing in his office—or her own—all day, and brighten his evenings by dancing like a butterfly all night.

* * *

She insists on being a man's working-partner downtown and his relaxation, uptown. She learns all his games and wants to share his golf, his airplane, his fishing parties and his hunting trips.

She wants to be a good sport, housekeeper, a mental companion, a financial asset, a pal—and at the same time a siren, a decoration, an inspiration and a spiritual prop.

* * *

All of which is a worthy and beautiful ideal, but about as practicable as attempting to find a garment which would serve as a ballgown, a raincoat, a sport suit, a nightgown and a bathing suit.

* * *

As a matter of fact, a man seldom desires or expects to find a whole harem in one woman.

* * *

One man marries in order to get a mental and spiritual mate—and another marries in order to get a playmate. One man wants a cook and a housemaker, who will satisfy his physical and domestic needs; and another wants a backbone, who will study him on his feet and keep him on his trolley.

* * *

One man wants a decorative woman, who will charm and divert him after a hard day's work—and another needs a running-mate, who will share labors and help pay the bills.

* * *

No one woman can actually SUCCEED in being 57 varieties of wife to any man. Two or three wives are as many as he can expect for the price of one wedding ring. In wifehood, as in any other profession a woman should be a specialist—and stick to her specialty.

* * *

Even a Turk did not expect his cook to be a houri or his pet houri to scrub floors. And a modern man thanks heaven when he gets a wife who can fill the one role for which he chose her, and is supreme at her specialty.

* * *

A Few Slips

If in your painting, Housewife, you have slipped off the edge onto the mirror or window pane, don't be annoyed. Be nonchalant and after the paint has dried with hubby's old safety razor blade remove all traces of the slips. It is much easier than trying to remove the wet paint at the time of the accident.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Attire for Formal Festivities

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At a high school banquet given recently for our football boys it was generally conceded that the banquet was to be formal. Some of the girls wore hats and dinner frocks; others wore nothing on their heads. Later a discussion arose between A and B. A insisted that it was perfectly correct to wear a hat if one chose, either to a formal luncheon, or formal dinner. B agreed with the first point, but not the latter. Please solve their problem and help them if you can, for they are depending on you. O. C.

Since it was decided that the banquet was to be formal, the girls should have dressed formally for it. That is, they should have worn evening dresses and no hats. This is the attire that is appropriate to a formal dinner—and, usually, a banquet is a formal dinner. And, of course, the boys, too, should have dressed formally. At least, the girls should have worn dinner dresses and without hats. For them to wear sports dresses seems to me not careful of the compliment that they should pay to the formal affair.

No, it is not correct to wear hats to a formal dinner—never. To a formal luncheon one wears a hat and, moreover, wears the hat during the luncheon. Now, indeed, one often sees the hostess of a formal luncheon wearing her hat, also.

Office Etiquette

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In calling my husband's office and asking to speak with him should I ask to "speak with John" or should I ask to "speak with Mr. Brown." He is called John by all the men in the office, and I am acquainted with all of them. HOUSEWIFE.

Dignity and good form demand that you ask to speak to "Mr. Brown."

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Winning the War Against Tuberculosis

Science is adding daily to our knowledge of the body and its true functions. Discoveries are being made at such a rate that it is difficult to keep up with them. One of the most cheering examples of the advance in medical science is the successful war being waged on tuberculosis in all its forms.

DR COPELAND

Not so many years ago tuberculosis was looked up as incurable. Now we know that it is really curable. We have learned that right living is the telling factor in its cure. In consequence, the death rate from this disease is steadily decreasing in most localities in our country. Unfortunately, in the congested sections of our great cities it still presents a serious problem.

The subject of nutrition is being vigorously investigated in relation to disease. In no human ailment is proper nutrition a more important factor than in the control of tuberculosis.

This disease may attack any of the organs, or any part of the body. The intestines form a convenient place for the tubercular germ to find a lodging place. It is rare for the disease to spend its force in the intestines. Yet if the membrane lining of this passageway becomes involved, say from infected milk, or some other agent, then there will be numerous local symptoms.

The most common symptom of this form of tuberculosis is diarrhoea. For this reason, treatment is difficult, because feeding the patient in tuberculosis of any kind is a matter of paramount importance. The resistance to disease must be built up as quickly as possible. If the digestive tract is out of order, forced feeding is most difficult.

When a person is emaciated, lacks strength, has great prostration and fever, he must be put to bed and remain there until his doctor permits him to get up. Absolute rest and quiet are essential in the beginning.

There is no medicine in the world like fresh air and sunshine. In tuberculosis the patient must have fresh air day and night. It is a vital thing in tubercular infection, and nothing must stand in the way of getting it. We are not doing our duty by the sufferer unless we keep this constantly in mind.

Except in certain rare forms, sunlight is one of the most powerful in this disease. Either natural or artificial sunlight may be used. If the latter, it should always be used under the guidance of a physician.

To sum up the treatment in tuberculosis of the intestines, or other forms of the disease, the essential factors in the cure are hygienic surroundings, fresh air and sunshine. To these we add plenty of rest and sleep, a diet in which milk and eggs are the foundation, and freedom from worry and mental disturbance. With all these, there is every chance of recovery.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

The woman who is too lazy to exercise can get her fat cells thumped to nothingness in the reducing department of a beauty shop. An applicator goes buzzing over her bumps and curves and jiggles away adipose tissue. There are patters that are used on fat arms and legs, and for hip spread there is the electric horse which walks, trots and gallops. When it gallops, you yell. It is not a wild and vicious beast, but it is animated.

When intense energy becomes a fixed habit, watch out! There is a possibility of losing the power of relaxation. A sound, steady nervous system is necessary for health and good looks. One should be able to go limp, fall asleep like a baby. Girls who sleep tied up in knots do not awaken refreshed in the morning, nor are they up and ajump for the day's activities. It is during sleep that the body makes its repairs. Restlessness and frightening dreams may be due to digestive disturbances, an impaired nervous system, or lack of mental hygiene.

Fat cells do not sit pretty and they sit so tight. When they settle on the human anatomy they take a long term lease. They can be banished by starving and by exercising the muscles upon which they rest. Fat foods are the most active fat builders; sweets and starches come next. By reducing the daily intake of butter, potatoes, cereals, white bread and cream, adipose tissue will evaporate. Drink buttermilk, fruit juices and tomato juice.

PROUDLOCK LEADS POINT-MAKERS HERE

EARL ROBINSON, husky center of the Windsor Bulldogs, has gained a comfortable lead in the individual scoring race in the International Hockey League. In the six games in which Windsor has participated, Robinson has tallied eight goals and contributed three assists for a total of 11 points. Goldsworthy, London's great wing and probably the fastest skater in the circuit, is second with seven points, representing four goals and three assists, and Gray, Cleveland's ace, is third with six points. Doraty, of Cleveland; Newman, of Detroit; Roth, of Buffalo, and Duncan, of Windsor, are tied for fourth honors with five points each.

Cam Proudlock

Ten puckmen are deadlocked in the next position, with four points each, and among these is Cam Proudlock, hard-working left wing who leads the local Yellow Jackets in tallying. Proudlock has contributed two assists and has scored two goals, including the victory goal in the locals' 1-0 victory over the Detroit Olympics here last Saturday night. Cam is no limelighter and tends strictly to business. He has the happy faculty of being in the right place at the right time, and probably will be crowding the leaders before the race is ended.

DUKE M'CURRY has annexed the creditable total of three points in two games, and appears to be in line for one of his best seasons. Capt. Tory Gregg and Whitey Fields have scored two goals each. Gregg has been handicapped by poorly-timed and poorly-aimed passes from center, but Fields has shown great improvement in recent games, and this improvement is certain to prove of benefit to both Gregg and Proudlock in their scoring efforts.

The individual scoring records of players who have made three or more points follows:

Player, Team.	G.	A.	Pt.	Player, Team.	G.	A.	Pt.
Robinson, Windsor	6	5	11	Voss, Buffalo	2	2	4
Goldsworthy, London	4	3	7	Bogardis, Buffalo	4	0	4
Gray, Cleveland	4	2	6	Godin, Buffalo	1	3	4
Duncan, Windsor	2	3	5	Huard, Buffalo	3	1	4
Roth, Buffalo	4	1	5	Grosvenor, London	4	0	4
Doraty, Cleveland	3	2	5	Northcott, Windsor	3	1	4
Newman, Detroit	2	3	5	McCurry, Pittsburgh	2	1	3
Proudlock, Pittsburgh	2	2	4	Gillie, Detroit	3	0	3
Brown, Syracuse	3	1	4	Lever, Windsor	2	1	3
Ladure, Syracuse	2	2	4	Phillips, Windsor	1	2	3

DR. H. C. CARLSON, Pitt basketball coach, didn't miss a football game played by the Panthers this fall and he did a lot of worrying while closely following their movements on the field.

Eddie Baker, football captain, also is co-captain and one of the veteran stars of the floor team, and Carlson watched in fear and trembling lest his star would be injured. After losing Hyatt, Zehfuss and Cohen by graduation he couldn't afford to lose Baker.

Eddie Baker

BUT EDDIE WASN'T injured. This slender lad is one of the toughest and sturdiest athletes Pitt ever had. In three years of varsity football and a year of the freshman grid game he has missed only a few minutes of play because of injuries. He went through all of last year's regular schedule at quarterback and also this year's. At training camp in September, Baker got a black eye and a twisted ankle but he didn't get them in football. They were suffered in a spirited game of volley ball.

THIS YEAR EDDIE went through four of the major games played by the Panthers on the gridiron—Notre Dame, Nebraska, Carnegie Tech and Ohio—without substitution. And besides he played practically all of the Syracuse and Penn State events, besides preceding and following that string, making six hard battles in a row.

He was a little tired when he finished up but didn't have a bruise. Carlson breathed a sigh of relief and told Baker to rest up a week before reporting for the basketball. But Eddie probably will be out on the floor this week, despite the coach's orders.

THE YANKEES NEXT season will present the tallest pitcher in organized baseball. He is Jim Weaver, giant right-hander, obtained from Baltimore in the International League recently, along with Catcher Tom Padden, in exchange for Pitchers Ken Holloway and Jack Hopkins and a bundle of cash.

Weaver towers 6 feet 7 inches above sea level, and is a full inch taller than Eppa Rixey, Red left-hander and previous holder of the altitude record among the major league flingers. The newest Yankee slab recruit was tried by Washington a few years ago and landed in Baltimore by way of Chattanooga and New Haven.

Shano Collins

AFTER THE DOPESTERS had guessed on Joe McCarthy, Ty Cobb, Bob Shawkey, Muddy Ruel, Everett Scott, Harry Hooper, Oscar Vitt, Tom Whelan and others as the new manager of the Boston American League club, the Red Sox owners crossed up everybody by appointing John Francis (Shano) Collins to fill the vacancy caused by the dropping of Heinie Wagner. Collins is stepping into a tough spot, as he will have to build almost from the ground up, but he is a smart baseball man who will have the liking and the respect of his players, and at least he is certain to get out of whatever athletes may be at his command the best baseball of which they are capable.

COLLINS IS 44 YEARS old and has 19 seasons of professional playing experience behind him, 16 of which were spent in the big show. He started as a shortstop, shifted to second base, then to first base and finally became an outfielder. He was with the White Sox for 11 years, and after the 1920 season was traded with Nemo Leibold to the Red Sox for Harry Hooper. The Red Sox released him unconditionally on June 2, 1925, and later he drifted to the minors. He managed Des Moines in the Three-I League last season and prior to that was manager of Pittsfield in the Eastern League.

The signing of Collins completes the major league managerial array for 1931. The list shows three changes, the other new appointees being Joe McCarthy at head of the Yankees and Rogers Hornsby as chief of the Cubs. Except for the possibility that Hornsby may do some pinch-hitting for the Bruins or perhaps play second base occasionally, the managerial group will again be made up solidly of bench pilots.

KNUTE ROCKNE says punters are born and can't be made, which leads another veteran to observe that it is impossible even to change a kicker's style. He says no two great kickers ever kicked alike and no two ever will, recalling that the late Percy Haughton was one of the game's greatest kickers in his playing days but as a coach never was able to teach any of his players to kick the way he did.

A kicker can be coached in strategy, it is admitted, but cannot

BENEFIT TILT ARRANGED

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Alumni of New Castle High School who are now playing football in various colleges will play New Castle High School on Saturday in a game at Taggart Field for the benefit of a fund being raised to aid needy school children of the city.

FLEMING TAKES LEAD

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Frank T. Fleming, of Champaign, challenger and twice national amateur three-cushion billiard champion, last night defeated Robert P. Harper, of Denver, present champion, 50 to 35, in the first of three blocks to be played for the title.

NIAGARA FALLS TEAM JACKET SCHOOL

By CARL W. SHATTO.

Like the old lady who lived in the shoe, Roy D. Schooley has so many hockey players that he doesn't know what to do.

When the Yellow Jackets first reported here to make ready for the opening of the International League campaign some 15 sturdy, young and ambitious puck chasers were in the group. Schooley, president and manager of the local club, found that while the material was of a high calibre, much of it was not sufficiently developed to suit his immediate needs, and he promptly started importing more skaters—singly and in pairs.

The high-water mark was reached Saturday, when Schooley looked over his Jackets and found that there were 24 men on the roster.

"What to do, what to do?" mused the local prexy as he viewed his athletes and thought of scouts in foreign fields preparing to ship in more Jackets.

ARRANGES FOR FARM

Today, however, the Schooley brow is a little less wrinkled, for he has arrived at the happy decision that what the Pittsburgh Club needs is a "farm." After solving the problem, Roy D. swung into action, and negotiations for the purchase of the Niagara Falls Club of the Canadian Professional League, already are so far advanced that they are likely to be concluded this week.

As soon as the papers are signed and the Niagara Falls team is the Pittsburgh Club's property Schooley will select a manager for his new team and arm him with a half-dozen or more young puckmen now in the local fold. The Niagara Falls pilot will be a man well acquainted with the Jackets' style of play, and the Canadian team will be conducted as a Yellow Jacket school.

YOUNGSTERS FORCED OUT

Several young skaters of promise have been forced out of action by the importation of experienced performers here. These youngsters will be developed in the Canadian Pro loop battles, and will be returned to Pittsburgh when needed.

In this manner Schooley hopes to have new stars coming up from season to season, and players wishing tryouts will be put to the test with the Dominion team, rather than here.

The local club appears to have made "ten strikes" in purchasing Gordon Fraser from Philadelphia and obtaining Mickey McGuire from Cleveland. In turning back Detroit last Saturday, Fraser and big Art Berlett shaped up as the equal of any defense duo in the circuit, and Schooley's worry regarding starting defense men is at an end. Cox has exceeded all expectations with his brilliant play in the nets, and Whitey Fields' great improvement as a center makes it apparent that the starting front line of Fields, Capt. Tory Gregg and Cam Proudlock is "set." Gregg and Proudlock have loomed as "finds" from the start.

MORE TALENT SOUGHT

McGuire's fine work at center makes the spare front line appear satisfactory, but Schooley says that he still needs more forwards—and this despite the fact that Eddie Bouchard, obtained from the New York Americans, and Paddy Sullivan haven't been able to break into the lineup. Roy D. also thinks he needs more defense men, to provide relief for Berlett and Fraser, and he has his scouts "on their toes."

Well, maybe Schooley is correct in deciding that he needs a few more high-pressure skaters, but the manager of the beaten Detroiters thinks that Pittsburgh needs nothing. And when the Cleveland Indians, International loop champs, come here to renew the ancient Pittsburgh-Cleveland ice rivalry at Duquesne Garden Thursday night they probably will think the same thing.

The Jackets leave for Windsor tonight, to battle the Bulldogs there tomorrow.

RULE IS CHANGED

DETROIT, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—The double major penalty for cutting an opponent with a stick was wiped from the books yesterday at the regular meeting of the governors of the National Hockey League here.

The rule, which had been in force only since the opening of the 1930-31 season, was legislated out of existence effective with today's games.

In its place will be a rule distinguishing between intentional and unintentional slashes. Unintentionally cutting an opponent will draw for the offender five minutes in the penalty box, as in former years, while deliberately slashing a player about the head will bring the offender a 20-minute match penalty.

The rule abolished called for a 10-minute penalty for all cuts, regardless of whether they were intentional or unintentional.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: BULLY WATERMAN—Capt. Robert H. (Bully) Waterman, master of the Yankee clipper "Challenge," is described in contemporary newspaper reports as "the most inhuman monster" that ever sailed the seas. When he sailed into the Golden Gate, one day in October, 1851, he had fatally shot 17 men out of a crew of 42. The other members of the crew told a tale of horror and oppression which, even in those days of "hard sailing" masters, stirred the sympathy of popular opinion. Waterman never was brought to justice. He outwitted the law through numerous stunts of evasion. He never returned to New York and died in California. A SUIT OF ARMOR—This bit of information is surprising. The heaviest suit of armor in the great collection of the Tower of London weighs no more than 66 pounds, while soldiers in the World War carried a load of from 75 to 90 pounds in full field equipment.

TOMORROW: THE KANGAROO'S CHAIR.

TECH GRIDDERS TO BE DINED

The Pittsburgh Clan and the Varsity Clan, powerful alumni organizations of Carnegie Tech, have decided to tender their annual testimonial banquet to the Tartan football squad Saturday evening at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association. The Clan dinner for the Skibo gridders is one of the most popular of all Carnegie affairs with a distinct football tinge, and this year will witness its eighth renewal.

The banquet usually comes later in December, but with the postponement of the W. & J. game from November 29 to December 6, and the consequent drawing out of the football campaign, there is a general desire to get all pigskin activities for the year over as soon as possible.

STEFFEN TO SPEAK

Judge Steffen, who is annually the chief speaker at the clan dinner, will be in Pittsburgh for the W. & J. game, and it will not be necessary for him to make a special trip from Chicago for the dinner, as has been the case previously. When he comes here either Thursday or Friday to assist in last minute preparations for the charity battle with the Presidents, he probably will go into a huddle with Bob Waddell and the other members of the coaching staff, to determine upon next year's captain.

Carnegie's football leaders are appointed by the coaching staff, with the full sanction and approval of the athletic council.

The dinner is to be held at 6 o'clock, and invitations have been mailed to clan members and alumni in this district. Reservations for the dinner must be made with Graduate Manager Overend before 10 a. m. on Saturday.

DUKES LAND MARKS

Jim Marks, famed Kiski grid coach and director of athletics at the noted Saltsburg preparatory school, will share oratorical honors with Lou Little, Columbia University mentor, at the annual Duquesne University Alumni football banquet at the William Penn Hotel next Tuesday evening. Marks, whose ability as an after-dinner speaker is exceeded only by his talent for teaching the pigskin pastime to aspiring youngsters, yesterday consented to grace the Duke post-prandial card with a 10-minute talk on a selected gridiron topic, and the fact that the sage of Kiskiminetas, as well as the Columbia coach, will give his views to the Red and Blue minions lends assurance that the speech-making department of the affair will be on a par with the numerous other features of the entertainment and decoration in course of preparation by the committee in charge.

Four Horsemen's Game With Giant Off

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(INS.)—The proposed football game between Knute Rockne's former Four Horsemen and the New York Giants for the unemployed here has been called off by Rockne, it was learned today.

Mayor James A. Walker received the following telegram from Rockne in Chicago:

"Game will have to be called off; doctor's orders. Regards, Knute Rockne."

The game had been scheduled for December 14.

British Pros Follow U. S. Golfers' Lead

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—The British Professional Golf Association has decided to follow the American lead of playing only homebred Britishers in the Ryder Cup golf match, and Percy Alliss and Aubrey Boomer will not be on next summer's team.

E. PITTSBURGH TO BANQUET

Sports celebrities of the University of Pittsburgh and Duquesne University will enliven the banquet to be given the East Pittsburgh High School squad tomorrow night in East Pittsburgh.

Johnny Coleman

Coach Johnny Coleman, formerly of the Bluff School and St. Bonaventure, announces several speakers including Dr. H. Clifford (Red) Carlson and Eddie Baker, of Pitt; Graduate Manager John D. Hollohan and Pat Lally, of the Dukes, and Charles J. Doyle, of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Coach Coleman has made fine progress in East Pittsburgh. His light squad has to battle against bigger elevens, but on the whole the outlook for the school is promising. The banquet is regarded as a big affair by the students and the townspeople.

Yale Stars to Play On All-East Eleven

HAMILTON, N. Y., Dec. 2.—(INS.)—Fred Linehan, guard, and Francis Vincent, tackle, will represent Yale's football team on the All-East eleven which will play Western stars in San Francisco on New Year's Day. They have accepted Andy Kerr's invitation to play for the East.

Ben Ticknor, captain and center of the Harvard eleven, declined an invitation. He said he could not spare the time from his studies.

JEFOREST LEADER

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—(INS.)—Shooting a 74, two over par for the Lake Merced course, Johnny JeForest, youthful British amateur today led the field of some 60 amateurs who are contesting for 25 positions in the qualifying round of the National Open match play tournament which begins over the Lakeside course Thursday.

Boxer Dies From Injuries Received In Fight

SAULT STE MARIE, Ont., Dec. 2.—(AP.)—After being unconscious for 90 hours, Charles (Kid) Watson, 29, Sault Ste Marie, Mich., boxer, died in a hospital yesterday from injuries doctors said he received during a bout with Charles Evans.

DRAFT QUESTION UP TODAY

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Minor league baseball's three Class AA circuits, the American Association, International League and Pacific Coast League, prepared for a showdown today on the draft question, chief thorn in the side of major-minor relations.

Some sort of decisive action is expected during the day when three leagues meet in joint conference to discuss the major leagues' demand that they submit to the draft. In event of a refusal, the majors declared they were prepared to sever all business relations with the big minors as well as with the Class A Western and Class B Indiana-Illinois-Iowa leagues.

Dukes to Oppose Western Maryland

Duquesne University athletic authorities have closed with the officials of Western Maryland for a football game in Pittsburgh on October 23, thus adding another strong attraction to the Dukes' 1931 program.

Oglethorpe University of Georgia, Georgetown, Geneva, Chicago Loyola, Holy Cross, Howard, North Dakota and West Virginia are the other steller opponents.

ENGLISHMAN MEDALIST

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—John De Forest, of Surrey, England, shot a 38-36—74, two over par yesterday to lead 67 amateurs in a preliminary qualifying round for the $7,500 open golf tournament to be played here December 4-7. Thirty amateurs qualified.

GREASY TAKES RODGERS' JOB; IRA SILENT

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 2.—(AP.)—When spring football practice is started at West Virginia University, the Mountaineers will have a new head coach.—Earle (Greasy) Neale, veteran mentor and one-time major league baseball player. Neale will succeed Ira Rodgers, who resigned last night.

Rodgers, who succeeded Dr. Clarence Spears in 1925, had no comment to make on filing his resignation, nor would he discuss his plans foy the future. He is a graduate of West Virginia and was an all-America fullback in 1919. His teams of 1929 and 1930 were unsatisfactory.

MAJOR LEAGUE STAR

Neale, former outfielder of the Cincinnati and Philadelphia National League Baseball Clubs, has coached at West Virginia Wesleyan, Muskingum, O., Marietta, O., Washington and Jefferson and the University of Virginia. He was a star end at West Virginia Wesleyan.

Rodgers stepped into the Morgantown post after a wonderful undergraduate career there, climaxed by receiving the fullback berth as well as the captaincy of Walter Camp's 1919 all-America football eleven.

Immediately upon graduation Rodgers was given an assistant coaching job under Spears and his elevation to the head mentor's post came when Tubby migrated to Minnesota.

VERSATILE ATHLETE

Rodgers was a versatile athlete in his undergraduate days, especially for his baseball ability. He starred as a shortstop on the old Allegheny Steel baseball club in this section when many big league ball players held down jobs on that club in connection with wartime posts at the steel company.

Neale is a familiar sports figure to local fans. He played football at West Virginia Wesleyan in 1912 and 1913. Greasy coached basketball at his alma mater for three years after graduation, then spent one year as grid and diamond mentor at Muskingum College. He signed to play baseball in 1915 with the Cincinnati Reds and was one of the stars of the 1919 World Series which later produced the great White Sox baseball scandal.

SPLENDID RECORD

Neale coached Wesleyan grid teams in 1916 and 1917, while a member of the Reds, and went to Marietta in 1919. His 1920 team there sent the little Buckeye school into national prominence, winning every game except one, to Boston College. He also piloted the floor team at Marietta, but went to Wash-Jeff the following year. His Red and Black team that year won seven straight games and ended with a scoreless tie in a Tournament of Roses game with California at Pasadena.

Greasy left the Cincinnati Reds in 1923 to go to Virginia University as football coach. John Heisman succeeded him as grid mentor at Wash-Jeff.

Neale remained at Virginia for six years, then joined the St. Louis Cards as baseball coach. Last year he managed the Clarksburg club of the Mid-Atlantic League. He won fame as a pro football star, playing for the Canton Bulldogs along with Jim Thore.

CHARITY GAME STIRS INTEREST

By JESS CARVER.

Everything is very lovely along the intercollegiate football front. The stage is set for Pittsburgh's big charity ball game here Saturday in the Stadium as Carnegie Tech and old Wash-Jeff hook up.

Not only is the contest worth the attention and patronage of the boys as a charity affair, but it is a mighty promising ball game. The Prexies enjoy what might be termed a huge edge in the matter of games won and lost, and always, no matter what the odds, they've made it tough for the Sons of Carnegie.

The game promises to turn into a duel between Tech's deceptive and flashy attack and Wash Jeff's stubborn defense. We'll see a great duel between two of the best tackles in the East, Capt. Walter Levine, of Wash-Jeff, and big Tank Highberger, of Tech.

Yesterday the Skibo second team lined up with W. & J. formations, and ran through the Presidents' play, although no tackling was permitted. Carnegie is working on a defense to combat the double wing-back system, which is used extensively by Coaches Amos and Henry.

A number of radio fans have already sent in their contributions to the unemployment fund. A voluntary fee of 25 cents is being requested from each radio listener next Saturday. Stations KDKA and KQV will broadcast the game from the Stadium, the second one this year to be put on the air from the big bowl.

A post-season football game between Monessen High School and Redstone Township High with a view of deciding the Class A championship of the W. P. I. A. L. will be staged some time this month as a result of a decision made late yesterday by the football committees of the league.

The titular contest was ordered after the committee had juggled with the point system to such an extent that the members were convinced the matter could only be settled satisfactorily on the field of battle.

WELL MATCHED

Redstone, undefeated, showed a slate of 116 points under the point system, with Monessen being a bit below or a bit above its rival, according to two interpretations of the system. Although the scholastic body is opposed to post-season games the procedure was agreed upon after considerable discussion. The date and place of the game will be made known as soon as the representatives of the two schools confer with the league.

The sportsmanlike note was sounded by Ralph Gardner, of New Castle High School, who with J. G. Hulten, of Latrobe High, and D. H. Stewart, of Beaver High, make up the committee. Gardner made his position clear in regard to post-season games—he is opposed to them, but he pointed out that in the rules which guide them there is a clause which favors the playing of a contest when the point system does not do justice.

DATE TO BE SET

In the sale at hand, as Gardner showed, there would be a bad reaction in one community if the other had been designated as the winner. Redstone, it was said, did not play as hard a schedule as the Monessen boys, who were tied twice.

The date of the contest probably will be later than next Saturday, for Redstone is slated to play a benefit game with Clarion at the latter place on that date. Hulton will work with the officials of the two schools in determining the time and location for the contest.

Derry Township High School, showing a total of 126 points, was awarded the Class B title, with McDonald High and East Huntington High a good second and third.

Arrangements for the benefit game between the Beaver Falls and Ambridge High School elevens, to be played at Ambridge Saturday, have been concluded. Aliquippa will appear at Rochester and Midland at East Liverpool in other benefit games Saturday.

WALT JOHNSON, HONUS MEET

Upon his arrival, Johnson was greeted by Honus Wagner, famed Flying Dutchman of the sport. For more than an hour the two beloved heroes of the diamond discussed baseball incidents in such a stirring manner as to grip a group of friends who listened in.

"It was not my pleasure to play against him, but from what I have heard he must have been wonderful," said the quiet Walter in a tone of regret.

The dignified Johnson exploded with laughter when Honus told of the time that Jimmy Casey, the Cub third-sacker, ran in to field what he thought would be a bunt off Wagner's bat. Wagner saw Jimmy coming and he took a swing at the ball. His drive caromed off Casey's forehead and the Cub leftfielder caught the ball on the rebound as Jimmy left the field with a goose-egg over his eye.

Johnson paid a tribute to Shortstop Joe Cronin, former Pirate, who was regarded as the most valuable player in the American League this season. The Big Train was here in connection with the display of his patented baseball game in Rosenbaum's store.

Bears to Use Joe Savoldi Despite Fine

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—(INS.)—Joe Savoldi, former Notre Dame backfield star, will appear in the Chicago Bears' lineup against the Green Bay Packers Sunday despite reports that a second $1,000 fine had been levied on the club for playing Savoldi last Sunday, it was announced today.

"We have appealed the first fine to the executive committee of the National Professional League at Columbus, O., and until they return a decision we'll keen on using Savoldi," George Halas, co-owner of the club, said.

Al Friedman, of Boston, 21-year-old heavyweight boxer, after engaging in his fifty-ninth bout in 52 weeks, needs a long rest. He showed this plainly last night as he mauled his way in futile fashion through 10 rounds with Emmett Rocco, Italian husky, of Ellwood City, in the main bout at Motor Square Garden, and got a break when the officials again played football with the decision, the final guess being a draw.

Rocco handily won six of the 10 rounds on clean and solid punching, while there was little to choose between them in the first two rounds, and Friedman won only the fifth and tenth with spurts. At the finish, Judge Frank Brown voted for Friedman and Judge Frank Ferris properly for Rocco, while Referee Red Robinson called it a dead heat, the official verdict, in view of the split between the judges.

FRIEDMAN INEFFECTIVE

It was a fast, but hardly scientific, fight for a couple of heavyweights. Friedman lacked snap in both hands and scarcely landed a telling blow. He brought the blood from a cut on the bridge of Rocco's nose in the fourth round by butting, and this was the extent of damage inflicted by him. Meanwhile, Rocco measured him for hooks to the head and belted him liberally about the body in the clinches as Friedman merely mauled. There were no knockdowns and neither man ever was in serious danger.

Friedman undoubtedly is a better fighter than he showed last night or he would not be capable of beating the men who appear as victims in his record. He is matched for a return bout with Dick Daniels, of Minneapolis, whom he defeated a week ago, at Boston, December 15, and his manager, the veteran Al Lippe, said after last night's bout he probably would lay him off for a time following the second meeting with Daniels.

THEIR FOURTH MEETING

Last night's bout was the fourth between Rocco and Friedman and it was marked by considerable bad feeling, which culminated in a flurry of fighting after the final bell and then an exchange of "pleasantries" at close range after they were broken up. Friedman's manager also made Rocco discard some tape from his hands before the bout got under way. Rocco won the decision in the first meeting, at New Castle, Pa., and Friedman won in a return bout there and also later in Cleveland. Rocco scaled 190½ pounds and Friedman 190 at 3 p. m. yesterday.

Harold Scarney, former high school football player in Youngstown, and a stablemate of Rocco, won over Harry Williams, local Negro, in the six-round semi-final, forcing the fighting all of the way and doing the harder punching. H. scored knockdowns for a count of five in the first round and for no count in the fifth. William weighed 180 pounds against 182 and throughout the bout favored his right fist. This was his first start since he broke that member at the Meyers Bowl several months ago.

BEATTY WHIPS HERMAN

Allen Beatty, Negro, of McKeesport, 148¼, handed out a tasty boxing lesson to Jackie Herman of Wheeling, 150, in the second six-rounder, winding up by dropping him for a count of four in the last round. He did everything to Herman but knock him out.

Billy Sullivan, of Lawrenceville, 142, lost by a technical knockout when he was unable to come up for the fifth round against Sharkey Lesko, of Duquesne, 145½, in the first bout, his seconds tossing in the towel because of a badly split upper lip. Sullivan had all the better of the first three rounds and then tired and began to go on the receiving end.

Joe Keally divided the refereeing with Robinson, working the first and third bouts. A. C. Couch and Norman Borland were the timers and Harry Klaas did the announcing. Despite the frigid weather and icy streets, a good-sized crowd turned out for the show.

HERRERA TO BOX ANDERSON AT GARDEN

Eddie Anderson, Oklahoma Cowboy lightweight boxer, has been signed to meet Tony Herrera, of Chicago, in the 10-round main bout at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. He is managed by Joe Glaser, of Chicago, who also handles Eddie Shea, Roy Williams and other well-known scrappers.

Anderson has been hoping top-notchers for some six years, but never has appeared in these parts. Herrera is a frequent performer around here and has been highly successful. He knocked out Joe Glick, New York veteran, at the Garden a few weeks ago.

A change has been made in the double windup card at the Motor Temple Friday night whereby Jack Tracey, negro middleweight of the North Side, and Al Becker, of Sheraden, will box the first 10-rounder, with Jimmy Kelly, of the North Side, and Allen Beatty, Negro welterweight, of McKeesport, in the top spot. Becker has been moved up from the second bout and a new match will have to be made there. Frankie Portland, of Ambridge, and Irving Rodgers, brother of Jackie Rodgers, will be the opener, this being Irving's first appearance in a pro bout. The change in the program was necessitated by an injury to his right hand suffered by Eddie Brannon in training, making it impossible for him to go through with a bout with Chet Smallwood, Akron southpaw, in the first 10-rounder.

Promoter Ray Eberle today announced his complete card for his postponed opening show in the Rialto Theater, Aliquippa, December 10. He has Nick Polis, of Aliquippa, and Charley Tarsan, of Rochester, Pa., in the main bout, Frankie Porto, of Glassport, and Bobby Belford, of Rochester, in the semi-final, Jack O'Brien, of Aliquippa, and Mike Kelly, of Pittsburgh, in the second bout, and Eddie Yanni, of Monaca, and Irish Malampio, of West Aliquippa, in the opener.

BABE RUTH GETS MOST FREE TRIPS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Playing second fiddle to Babe Ruth is not without encores. The clever Lou Gehrig, of the New York Yankee symphony, one year ago established a major league record for driving in runs as he batted behind the homerun monarch. This year Lou fell only one tally below this 1929 mark as he hammered over 174 runs.

The official figures for miscellaneous features in the American League, issued today, show that 15 players of the junior order of baseball drove in 100 or more tallies in the season.

Gehrig's high mark, by the way, was eclipsed by our own Hack Wilson, who drove in almost 200 Bruins and Cubs this year. The official averages for the senior loop have not yet been released.

Al Simons, the Athletics' great outfielder, was second to Gehrig in pounding over tallies with a total of 165. Jimmy Foxx and Ruth were second and third.

Among the select circle is none other than Sunny Joe Cronin, former Pirate, who, as the Senators' shortstop, seems to have been a distinctive sensation in the American League. Joe drove in 126 runs.

The Bambino led in bases on balls by drawing 136 free trips to first base. Max Bishop, Connie Mack's little leadoff gem, was a good second to Babe with 128 passes.

The slugging Yankees showed they do not do anything in a halfway manner by leading the league in bases on balls and strikeouts. The records:

Basketball Rules Quiz

This is the second article of a daily feature which will carry the basketball fans and players through a series of 24 problems which may come up at any of the regular games this winter. A better understanding of the great indoor game will be gained by following this series closely.

PLAY NO. 2.

A substitute has been sent into a game between Kentucky and Vanderbilt by the Kentucky coach. In the excitement, McGinnis, of Kentucky, fails to report to the referee and the official calls a technical foul. After the free throw the referee calls another foul because the substitute still has failed to report.

What is the correct ruling?

ANSWER.

Only one foul should have been called, as that is regarded as sufficient for a technical mistake. After the first foul and before the free throw is attempted, the referee should see that the incoming substitute properly reports to the scorers and to himself.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Coach Glenn (Pop) Warner said today the election of a captain for Stanford's 1931 football team will not be held until next September, if at all.

The coach said he believed the team's leader should be chosen by the members of next year's squad, rather than the graduating lettermen, as has been the practice for the last seven years.

HARPSTER SEES GAME TOSSUP

By HOWARD HARSPSTER.

With many of the country's football teams having played their last games, the 1930 season is rapidly drawing to a close. Early December finds only a few scattered intersectional games to be played, and one of these promises to be the classic of the year. I refer, of course, to the fine spectacle that the whole Pacific Coast will endeavor to witness, the game in Los Angeles next Saturday between Coach Howard Jones' great Trojan eleven of Southern California and Knute Rockne's team of teams, the 1930 Irish squad of Notre Dame.

Howard Harpster

Both universities are represented by their strongest teams of recent years, if not of all time. Upon the outcome of this game likely will hinge the mythical National championship.

LOOMS AS TOSS-UP

If Notre Dame can take the measure of Southern California, there will be no argument concerning the title claims of Rockne's team. However, if Southern California defeats the Irish, any number of teams likely will claim the title and the situation will be very much in a jumble.

Now that the importance of the big game is established, the sports writers are attempting to decide in their columns which team will be the winner. And quite a task faces them.

Most of the critics say the game will be a toss-up. I believe they are right and venture further to say that at game time the outcome still will be just as much of a mystery as it is now. A glance at the season's records of the two teams is enough to convince anyone of their greatness. For once it appears that there can be no claim that either team is overrated.

When a football squad is good enough to turn in victories over such elevens as Southern Methodist, Navy, Carnegie Tech, Pitt, Indiana, Penn, Drake, Northwestern and Army, you may rest assured that the players on that squad are doing more than showing off their uniforms every Saturday.

CLOSE GAME LAST YEAR

And I guess the Southern California players weren't out picking daisies, either, on the afternoons they defeated Stanford, 41 to 12, and California, 74 to 0. Then, too, remember that the Trojan team this year has all but two or three of last year's regulars in its line-up. Last year, Southern California crushed Tech and Pitt and lost to Notre Dame's undefeated eleven by the close of 13 to 12.

Last spring I made a trip to Hollywood with an All-America football team that played in Joe Brown's college picture, "Maybe It's Love." Our team, Upton by name, had for its coach in the picture none other than Coach Jones, the Southern California mentor. The rival team, Parsons, was made up largely of Southern California players.

Quite naturally I became well acquainted with Jones and his players while the picture was being filmed and I know that all of Southern California has been impatiently waiting for next Saturday to roll around and bring with it another crack at Notre Dame.

TROJANS ARE PRIMED

I am not tipping off the Irish to any startling news, for Coach Rockne and his men already know that Jones' squad would rather defeat them than any other team on the schedule. Perhaps the same attitude is shown by most of the teams when it comes to playing Notre Dame, but, somehow, I received the impression that there never was a team anywhere that wanted to even up accounts quite as badly as Southern California does in this instance.

The game will be a battle from start to finish and both teams will be primed to the highest possible pitch.

Long's Sport Comment

be invested with a kicking style different from his own. Sam Felton, who played on Harvard teams under Haughton, was reminded one day that Haughton had taught him a lot about kicking. "Haughton taught me nothing about kicking," Felton replied. "No one ever taught me. And, what's more, nobody ever taught anybody else how to kick. Either you're a kicker or you're not."

Ernie Pinckert

BECAUSE OF THE fact that Notre Dame has been scored on in seven out of nine games this season, some football men are expressing the opinion that the Irish defense will not be strong enough to cope with Ernie Pinckert and the other star ground gainers of Southern California in next Saturday's big gridiron battle in Los Angeles. But the fact that Indiana and Northwestern were the only opponents failing to score against Notre Dame is rather misleading. It gives a false impression of the South Bend defense. For the greater part of the scoring by opposing teams was done while Rockne had his second or third-string men in action. It is significant that when the season narrowed down to the two games with Northwestern and Army in which a strong defense was essential to victory, those two powerful foes in two hours of play on successive Saturdays could not make a single point through their own advances and their only score was one touchdown that resulted from a blocked kick. All of which would appear to indicate that the Notre Dame defense is generally just about as strong as it has to be.

ONE OF THE most capable and popular men ever connected with the Pittsburgh baseball club left it last night when Chic Fraser, veteran scout, was given his release. His going, which will be regretted by all followers of the club, who have known him to be a silent but hard and faithful worker for the good of the Pirates from season to season, terminates one of the longest terms of scouting service on record in the major leagues, as he had been in the employ of the local club continuously for 18 years, qualified for the scouting game by 19 years of experience as a pitcher, 14 of which were served in the major leagues.

Fraser pitched for Minneapolis in 1894 and 1895, for the Louisville Nationals the next three seasons, for the Phillies in 1899 and 1900, for the Athletics in 1901, for the Phillies again in 1903, 1904 and 1905, for the Reds in 1906, for the Cubs in 1907, 1908 and 1909, for the Logan Square Independents in Chicago in 1910, for New Orleans in 1911 and for Decatur in 1912. At the end of his pitching days he became a scout for the Pirates in 1913 and has served in that capacity ever since, making a record that earned for him recognition as one of the best ivory hunters in the business. He was an able lieutenant to Buccaneer manager in spring training and at other times during the season when not on the road, and in a general sense proved himself a splendid man to have on a ball club. He will have no trouble making new connections if he decides to remain in baseball, though there is a possibility that he may give up the game and give all of his time to the supervision of his big ranch in Jerome, Idaho.

A FIGURE LONG familiar in football in these parts goes out and another equally familiar comes in as a result of the retirement of Ira Rodgers as head coach at West Virginia University and the probable appointment of Greasy Neale to succeed him. As a player, Rodgers was one of the greatest ever developed in the district, having been named all-America fullback by Walter Camp in 1919, and he has since been prominent in a coaching capacity, having served as chief mentor of the Mountaineers for the last five seasons as successor to Tubby Spears.

Neale followed a long period of playing prominence in baseball and football by becoming one of the leading coaches of this section as director of the gridiron forces of W. & J. from 1920 to 1922. He has since coached at Virginia and other institutions, is a mentor who gets results, and looks like a good prospect to improve West Virginia's football fortunes besides adding a lot of color. Coaching changes are making a fair start toward approaching the record number registered a year ago. Rodgers is the third to resign in the major ranks, Bill Roper at Princeton and Nibs Price at California having preceded him.

DEMAND PILED UP FOR AUTOS AND TIRES

Great Potential Buying Power Created by Owners Holding on to Old Cars

By MERRYE S. RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Americans have been riding down the highway of depression in high-powered automobiles.

In spite of the falling off in the sales of new cars, Americans have probably ridden more miles in motor cars this year than ever before. The gasoline consumption figures support this influence.

Mr. Rukeyser.

With consumers disobeying the so-called law of obsolescence and getting more use of their present cars, instead of trading them in, there has accumulated a pent-up demand for new cars, which will become increasingly effective when potential buyers believe that a genuine turn for the better in the economic situation has come. Meantime, tires and other parts are being worn out to an extraordinary degree, and shortages are in the making.

USED CAR PROBLEM

Out of the present depression the industry is likely to make marked strides toward a solution of the used-car problem. Presidents of some of the representative automobile companies have told me that their own used-car situation is better than it has been in years. Furthermore, present consumer policies of using old cars will raise up the used-car problem in future years.

Since the middle of October, the improvement in the demand for new cars has been a little better than seasonal. Dealers' stocks of cars are reported to be moderate. General Motors executives take pride out of the fact that in recent months they have increased their ratio of sales to those of the industry as a whole.

"We are glad to report an improvement in earnings that has held good for the nine-month period. The earnings for the third quarter of 1930 was $4,899,091 and for 1929 $4,661,-221."

RETAIL PRICES

Commenting on the oft-repeated assertion that retail prices have not yet really reflected changes in primary markets, D. M. Nelson, vice president in charge of merchandising of Sears, Roebuck & Co., writes:

"Retail prices have in the main fully reflected the decline in wholesale prices. However, wholesale prices on most commodities are not in line with the drop in basic commodities. It is very questionable whether or not the readjustment would be hastened by having retail prices in line with commodity prices, which in the average are lower than at any time in the past 20 years."

Joseph J. Lerner, president of the Lerner Stores Corporation, operating a chain of specialty shops, has taken advantage of the depression to extend the scope of his company's operations. Accordingly, sales for the first nine months this year reached $17,160,776, an increase of $4,864,465 over the corresponding period in 1929.

Unusual Features In New ABC Trust

Allied Business Corporation Shares, Inc., of New York, has announced a new fixed trust of the distribution type known as ABC Trust Shares, Series D, of which that corporation is depositor and the Chase National Bank of the City of New York is trustee. This new trust has several unusual features, such as the omission of any cash reserve fund, the elimination of any underlying stock which may develop an unfavorable trend, the proceeds being distributed to the shareholders, and the payment of full bank rate interest on all cash accumulations awaiting the semi-annual distribution. The terms of the trust agreement do not permit of substitution for any stock or stocks in the portfolio except in the event of mergers or reorganizations.

City Ice Dividend Maintenance Likely

The City Ice and Fuel Company will bring into service in Pittsburgh in a few days its new cold storage plant at Sixteenth and Pike streets and Penn avenue. In a letter to stockholders, it is stated that in view of satisfactory current earnings it is expected that the customary quarterly dividend of 90 cents a share will be continued in 1931 on the common stock and that indicated earnings for 1930 will equal the $4.69 a share earned in 1929.

WALL STREET HEARS

That there is a large short interest in Bethlehem Steel, as indicated by the borrowing demand for the stock.

That refinancing is being considered for Oliver Farm Equipment.

That there has been some switching from Consolidated Gas into other stocks recently, possibly reflecting uncertainty over the eventual price levels of utility stocks.

Extra Holiday Dividends By 89 Companies

By B. C. FORBES.

SEVENTY-ONE extra Christmas and New Year dividends payable in cash have been announced during November. Also, 18 companies have declared special stock dividends.

Mr. Forbes

The stockholders of these 89 companies, totaling hundreds of thousands, will thus be furnished with additional money for holiday spending — or reinvestment.

NATURALLY, THIS year's showing does not compare favorably with last year's. Extra dividends, either in cash or in stock, were declared by 174 companies in November a year ago. Many corporations were then enjoying the highest earnings in their history. In view of the conditions now ruling, this year's Christmas and New Year special disbursements must be regarded as reasonably satisfactory.

It remains true, however, that an ultra-conservative dividend policy is being pursued by various corporations having unnecessarily fat surpluses.

Fixed Trusts Simplify Tax Problems

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

SALES OF SHARES of investment trusts of the fixed type have been greatly stimulated by opportunities to simplify tax problems. While some phases of the taxing of fixed trust holdings still remain to be definitely settled by court decisions, the preponderance of legal opinion indicates that the tax features of this new type of investment offer substantial savings to large estates.

The duplication of inheritance taxes often involves such great legal expenses and the payment of percentages in so many localities that as much as half of the capital may be consumed.

A share of stock in an estate being settled may be subject to taxation by the Federal Government, by the state where the owner lived, by some other state which also claimed the owner as a citizen, by the state where the stock certificate was transferred and by the state where the company is incorporated.

Problem of Large Estates

IT IS NOT an uncommon occurrence for estates of moderate size to pay inheritance taxes in half a dozen states. One large estate was recently settled after paying taxes in 22 states.

While fixed trusts may secure diversification through the ownership of the stocks of from 20 to 50 corporations operating under the laws of nearly as many states, most legal opinions state that the shares representing units of these investments are only taxable by the Federal Government and by the state where the deceased owner lived. In case the shares should be transferred to heirs living in another state there is a possibility that additional tax might be imposed on the proportion of the investment representing deposited stocks under its jurisdiction.

While some state tax departments have indicated that they may attempt to collect inheritance taxes on portions of investments in fixed trusts owned by individuals resident in other states, there has been no formal court decision and it is considered very doubtful if such an attempt would be upheld.

Income Taxes

IN SOME CASES misunderstanding exists on the status of income received from fixed trusts so far as Federal income taxes are concerned. While a few trusts have declared that their payments to share holders are entirely exempt from normal Federal income taxes, the majority of them state that only part of the payments may be considered free from this tax burden.

The general belief is that the portion of income representing cash dividends paid on the deposited stocks is exampt from normal Federal income tax but is subject to surtax. Dividends representing the proceeds of the sale of securities, stock dividends or subscription rights are taxable to the extent that they include a profit. It usually happens that a part of this type of income represents return of invested capital. This portion would not be taxable.

Breakdown of Income

MOST OF THE FIXED trusts make a practice of sending their shareholders a statement which shows the portion of the payments representing cash dividends, which is not subject to normal income tax; profit from the sale of securities which is subject to normal income tax; and return of capital, which is subject to no income tax.

CHESTER SEES TRADE GAIN

Business recovery is now the prevailing impression, a more hopeful state of mind, in the opinion of C. M. Chester, Jr., president of General Foods Corporation, who is visiting the city today while calling on his company's district sales headquarters here. Mr. Chester and C. Francis, president of the General Foods Sales Company, Inc., are making a first-hand study of food industry conditions in a group of districts between New York and Denver.

Mr. Chester

Mr. Chester states that he finds a more optimistic attitude among the people with whom he has been conferring. The feeling seems to be rather general, he states, that commodity prices have reached bottom in numerous cases and that the tendency is likely to be upward. Many corporations are beginning to buy supplies of raw materials in larger quantities.

Am I using my bank's Facilities to the Fullest Advantage?

It's a question every man with a bank account should ask himself. Your bank is something more than just a depository for current funds. It can be of service to you in many ways besides carrying your checking or savings account.

For instance, the Mellon National Bank maintains one of the most modern safe deposit vaults in the country, for the safe keeping of your securities and other valuable papers. It has an investment department, a foreign bureau, a credit department, a travel bureau, and collection facilities throughout the world.

These services are all maintained for your convenience, and, unless you are taking advantage of a part of them, at least, you are not getting all of the benefits your banking connection offers.

STOCK PRICES AGAIN CREEP UPWARD

Trading Shows Signs to Picking Up After Hoover Message; Wavers Later

NEW YORK, Dec. 2—(AP.)—The stock market again found the line of the least resistance led upward today, but it was not enthusiastic about it.

Gains were extended a little and trading showed signs of picking up for a few minutes after financial news tickers printed summaries of President Hoover's message to Congress in the early afternoon, but the list soon wavered, and part of the advance was lost.

After a momentary sag in the first hour of trading, the list crept almost steadily upward until early afternoon. Most of the prominent shares recorded net gains of a point or so, while a handful gained more than 2.

The President's recommendations appeared to have been almost fully discounted previously since they were closely in line with brokerage forecasts.

Strength in the steel issues seemed to reflect fresh rumors that producers plan to advance first quarter quotations. The coppers moved up a little here and there, as at least one custom smelter sold the red metal at 11½ cents, against 10½ last week.

The rail shares firmed a little. Recent reports that Bethlehem Steel was negotiating for independent companies in the Pittsburgh area bobbed up again on the reported conference of a Bethlehem official with McClintic-Marshall officers.

Credit conditions were stationary, with call loans at 2 per cent. The weekly condition statement of Federal Reserve member banks in urban centers showed that these institutions were again purchasing other securities than U. S. governments, a reversal of the trend of the previous week. Governments declined $12,000,000, while other securities held increased $62,000,000. Loans against securities dropped $67,000,000, and "all other" loans, which classification includes commercial loans, dropped $56,000,000.

AMPLE WHEAT FOR FRANCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—There is no likelihood of a wheat shortage in France this year, the Commerce Department has been advised. In spite of the comparatively poor crops harvested in 1930, the domestic production, together with stocks from last year, the expected imports from Algeria and the regulation 10 per cent of foreign wheat, was stated to be amply sufficient to meet the whole of the domestic demand.

Even in the unlikely event of the demand being greater than the normal supply, the large world stocks still available made it unnecessary to fear that any measure such as the reduction of import duties on foreign grain would have to be taken in order to meet domestic wheat requirements.

Pipe and Foundry Earnings to Gain

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—United States Pipe and Foundry Company will report an increase in earnings this year over 1929. Results for the current half year will be somewhat better than in the first six months and net profit should exceed $1,700,000, bringing the year's results above $3,225,000 or $4 a share for the common after preferred dividends. For the entire year 1929, net profit was $2,381,230 or $2.74 a common share. The common stock pays $2 a year.

Extends Time for Stock Deposits

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Deposits of capital stock of Diamond Match Company under the plan of recapitalization and reincorporation are understood to be within about 800 shares of the required 97 per cent to make the plan operative. The total outstanding issue is 170,000 shares. The date for deposits has been extended to December 8.

Waste Charges in Bancokentucky Suit

CINCINNATI, Dec. 2.—A stockholder and several depositors of Bancokentucky Company and three other banks have sued officers and directors for $25,000,000 for the benefit of depositors, alleging mismanagement and waste of capital, surplus, deposits and other resources of the banks.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, December 2.—Cotton opened steady today at a decline of 6 to 10 points. New December contracts sold off to 10.27c and May to 10.85c under the initial offerings of 8 to 11 points net lower and within 14 to 20 points of the low records established early in October. There was sufficient demad to steady prices at these figures, however, and trading was comparatively quiet at the end of the first half hour.

After early offerings had been absorbed the market became steadier. Prices climbed back to about or a shade above yesterday's closing quotations. New December closed up to 10.37c and May to 10.97c before the end of the morning and the market was quiet within a point or two of the figures at midday. Trading was comparatively quiet on the advance with offerings light.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—With Argentina reporting frost unfavorable for late-sown crops, and with recent Argentine forecasts of large yields being discredited, wheat values tended upward early today. There were also reports that lake navigation would be closed this week, and that European importers would depend more upon United States wheat until Southern Hemisphere wheat began moving in volume. Opening unchanged to ⅛c higher, Chicago wheat afterwards scored a moderate general advance. Corn started ⅜@1c up, and later gained a little more.

Copper Firms Maintain Present Dividend Rates

Directors of the Utah Copper Company and Nevada Consolidated voted payment of the regular quarterly dividends of $2.25 a share respectively. This action, together with fresh strength that developed in copper metal at London yesterday, influenced a slightly better demand for the red metal shares in the course of the session. Utah and Nevada Consolidated are controlled through stock ownership by the Kennecott Copper Company, the latter owning all but a small part of the Utah stock outstanding and through it a controlling interest in Nevada Consolidated. Inasmuch as Kennecott directors had voted to maintain the $2 dividend put into effect about three months ago at their last meeting, the action of Utah and Nevada was not surprising.

William H. Woodin, chairman of the American Car and Foundry Company, in a recent radio address digressed from the topic of his music to make the following statement about business conditions: "I just wanted to say that in the midst of all this depression in business, I personally feel that we have about reached the bottom of things, and that from now on business is going to assume a brighter aspect. It is a little bit like a child that first must creep before it walks. I really believe that we have reached the creeping stage toward rehabilitation of business."

Baldwin Locomotive will benefit from the prospects for increased orders for locomotives reflected in recent inquiries and those anticipated. Earnings of the company this year have been considered satisfactory in view of conditions among equipment makers. For the first six months, $1.31 a share was shown on the 843,000 shares of common outstanding. It generally is believed that profits in the final half of the year will approximate those of the preceding six months. The stock pays $1.75 a share per annum.

Wall Street is taking the attitude that the reduction of the Standard Brands dividend to an annual basis of $1.20 a share the middle of last week indicated the confidence of the management in the future. It is maintained that if the officials had been doubtful the dividend would have been passed. The recent improvement in sales probably has been one factor which determined the action of the directors. Interests in the company are said to have informed friends that better earnings are ahead.

Due to a rather heavy call which went through in the forenoon no funds were available in the outside money market under the official 2 per cent Stock Exchange day rate yesterday. It was estimated that the total of withdrawals ran between $60,000,000 and $75,000,000, the heaviest in some time to provide for dividend payments due at this time. Quarterly and semi-annual dividends were due yesterday on approximately 600 stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange and the Curb Exchange, and it was estimated that the total of such disbursements would run between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000. Among the more prominent companies on whose stocks dividends were due were Pennsylvania Railroad, Atchison, Baltimore and Ohio, American Tobacco, American Smelting, Liggett & Meyers, Woolworth, Cities Service and Associated Dry Goods.

The uninteresting character of the market yesterday was best portrayed by the extremely sluggish nature of the trading. It was the smallest full five-hour trading period of the year. Only 1,103,000 shares changed hands compared with 2,188,000 shares on September 17, last, this year's second smallest trading day. Sluggishness in trading was laid by some Wall Street speculators to the fact that many traders preferred to remain on the sidelines until President Hoover had delivered his message to Congress today.

Smelters Selling Copper 11½ Cents

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Custom smelters have sold copper at 11½ cents a pound delivered in the domestic market. This is an advance of ½ cent over last previous sales. Producers are maintaining their quotation at 12 cents a pound.

In the domestic copper market all the business is going to the custom smelters and producers are simply quoting and not trying to sell until the situation has cleared itself up.

Annie Arrested, But Her Identity Is Hidden

CHAPTER XXII.

Freeman's bodyguards turned to carry him to his car, but two uniformed policemen entered just then.

"Lord help us!" he gasped. "It's B. B.!"

Officer Hillis clumped to the office and 'phoned in a bulletin —it wasn't long—other, higher officials, would get the details for themselves later.

Officer Hillis, this simple and momentous duty done, started through the hotel. The lower floors yielded little — nobody knew anything, nobody had seen anything, nobody had done anything, nobody had heard anything. But on the fourth floor he had tried the door of 444—it was unlocked—he entered.

Annie raised her pistol and took aim. Then she caught herself. This wasn't Freeman, it was a harness bull! She started back on the fire escape, but Hillis heard her.

"An' who an' what might you be?" he asked.

Annie was rattled, but not enough, so to answer him. She had heard nothing and knew nothing, and said nothing.

"Come on—what was you doin' there jus' now?"

Annie managed a painful smile.

"See my lawyer," she said.

"Come with me," he said.

* * *

Freeman Near Death

"Freeman's men—two of 'em. I seen them. But I was too shaky to shoot it out. At dat, we oughta stopped an' croaked 'em. We'll all go on the spot for dis now. But I'd let 'em' stan' me again a wall before I'd let dat lousy chiseler get away wit' de deal he hands me.

"I kick in fifty good grand to him; cold dough for dat much wort' o' coke. Den I find it's cut wit' almos' half bicarb. I hail 'im on de 'phone an' he gives me de laugh, an when I says he's gotta come across wit' coke fit for a white man to use or sling back my jack, he says for me to go to hell.

* * *

The panic was on.

Silk Freeman, whose tainted, tenuous tentacles had squirmed into and gripped every element in the private and public life of great Greater New York, was kicking off in a bedbuggy hospital—his unclean clay withering under the slashes and gashes of the slugs from the machine gun and automatics of a mysterious mob.

As he wriggled dying, there writhed the wreckage of the city's magnificent shame. Bankers wondered and worried; gangsters got gooseflesh and ducked under cover; women blinked suddenly out of their hop and their hootch and their kept security, and speculated on what was to become of them; an old established store of enviable reputation slammed its doors and the investigators found that it had been only a smug blind for Silk's smuggling activities.

Servant Questioned

B. B., who they had always said had his office under his hat and his heart under control, was skidding down the short, one-way Westbound street with no turns right or left. And the green signals were set and Death knew no speed laws.

The newspapers were yowling. They never had fought Freeman. They had known plenty about him. But they knew plenty about plenty of local institutions. If the Statue of Liberty had keeled over and her light gone out they would have turned the light of publicity on the remnants of the romance and glamour of that perpendicular old lady without a sense of humor or a sense of pity. Silk was as conspicuous and as fallen a manifestation.

And he was croaking the good croak—and his sardonic, sneering, bloodless lips were wreathed in a sallow smile at the slick dicks and the domineering district attorney, who had solemnly gone through the pious ritual of asking foolish questions.

Old Pete, the ex-convict vassal of the Big Boy, had blustered and bleated. There had been the unescapable mysterious telephone call an hour or less before the knock-off, the aged servitor had heard his master check back, as he always did, and the call had come from a beautiful, titian-topped girl. Freeman had of late played furiously—a crimson-headed female from Chicago called Polack Annie! And what a monicker that was for headlines.

Well—

The Chicago correspondents had choice data on Polack Annie. She had been the sweetie of Kinky King, chief of the West Side gangsters, and she had banged him off. She had lived with the Edgewater Kid and the Kid had been massacred on the spot. Goldie Gorio, the racket-boss, had raided and stuck up Central Detail and paralyzed the town and kidnaped her. His whole mob had been typewritten without benefit of carbon paper while he was in his suburban fort making lurid love to her. The Chief of Police had come in on them and had clipped Goldie with his own gold-plated gats. (Yeah? Like fun he had! Annie had!)

Identity Hidden

And where now was this flaming femme? The papers asked. She had disappeared. And wouldn't she? Hadn't she graduated from the Uniperversity of Chicago?

But who then was this brunette who had been nailed in room 444 of the dingy Victory Hotel, where Freeman had been sprawled out so ignobly in the lobby by the hail of hot lead? She would give no explanation other than that her lover had deserted her. They had registered "Thos. Livermoor and wife." A revolver had been found in the air shaft beneath the window in the $6-a-day suite—paid up in advance. Officer Hillis said he had seen the pretty woman throw something away.

The serial numbers on the rod had been traced—and the police had learned that the weapon had been bought in New Jersey by no one else than Freeman! There was a Maxim silencer on the gat—and what the deuce could that mean? One cartridge had been exploded and that was a further mystery. Where had that bullet landed —and who had triggered it?

Two men, said to be Silk's bodyguards, were held as material witnesses. They hadn't seen a thing. One, his chauffeur, had driven him to the hotel. The other was his chauffeur's boyhood friend. They had entered the hotel to wash their hands a short time after Freement went in—and they had stumbled over his groaning form. They were very much shocked. Why would Mr. Freeman, who was in the real estate and insurance rack—h'm—business—need any bodyguards? Who would want to kill a man who was so regular and liberal to others?

DAILY TRUE STORY The Singing Plumber

She always did when she was tired—and angry.

As she opened the door to her apartment she sighed wearily.

It almost seemed, to her aunt, as she stepped into the living room and tossed her silver fox on a chair, that there would at once appear a halo about her head only her aunt knew better. The sullen glow in her great dark eyes and the grimness about her pretty mouth at once destroyed her angelic appearance.

"What went wrong today, Carrie?" her Aunt Hattie asked.

Carlotta Carlos had been christened Caroline Carson. She was still Caroline—except in her world of music and operetta.

"Juffy, the dumb thing, didn't have my coronation robe ready to try on, and we have our first dress rehearsal soon."

Juffy was really Madame Joffelin, the modiste.

"When I want a gown, I want it. When it is promised, I expect it, Aunt Hattie."

"Oh auntie, don't sit there and phisolophize like a Chinaman. Not only did Juffy fall down on her promise, but of all the impossible men I ever saw or read about or heard try to sing, I saw the prize lot today."

Carrie had seen and listened to exactly eight applicants who hoped to be cast in the role of the American Consul in the new operetta, "The Wild Princess," in which Carrie was to play and sing the title role.

"Oh, well, Mr. Illingford will fall back on Peter Swazey as usual," her aunt consoled.

"But I won't. Twice he has been too intoxicated to go through with his parts and twice he failed to appear and we had to put in his atrocious understudy. He's out—absolutely."

"By the way, did that truck driver person appear—the one who has dreams of becoming an opera star?"

"I left word that I wouldn't see him. It's absurd to waste time. The fellow may have a voice of sorts, but without training—"

Carrie laughed disdainfully.

"The papers said he had a marvelous voice.

Carrie Objects

"That's another thing—even if he did make good in a small degree, it would be worse—the papers would play him up as a piece of news for whatever space is given to this new production, and I intend to have the major portion of publicity."

"Whatever is written about anyone who supports you, my dear, is so much added publicity for you."

"I won't have it—I won't be advertised as singing with some clumsy truck driver or whatever it is that the silly man is doing."

"Hop into your bath and get rested. I'm going to run out to see Polly," her aunt told her. "There's plenty in the ice box for you. It's Mandy's day off, you know. You'll be going to dinner with the Stewarts tonight."

After her bath Carrie did feel a little better. She put on a pretty house dress because all of her clothes were pretty and she felt better that way. She was never one to lounge about unpresentable.

The kitchen buzzer sounded. It would be something from the provision shop, she believed. She opened the door. A broad-shouldered, red-faced six-footer with a great canvas bag stepped in and smiled at her.

"I came to fix the water pipes, lady," he said.

The man was already stooping over to examine the pipes beneath the kitchen sink.

Carrie began to sing again. This time it was something from Lucia, a colorful thing that helped her immensely.

Carrie eyed him suspiciously. "Are you a plumber?" she asked.

"Did you think I was a portrait artist? Sure I'm a plumber, a master plumber, at that."

Produces Credentials

Carrie turned to the gas range and set back the bacon, and as she did so she purposely began singing from Trovatore.

The plumber, sitting at the sink and tightening a union with a big Stilson wrench, promptly began to sing with her. Carrie did not stop, but finished and then nodded at him and scowled.

"You are no plumber—those are someone else's union cards," she said.

He held out strong and calloused hands. "Do you think I got these making tissue paper flowers, lady?" he asked.

"Can you read music?"

"Sure, lady."

"Wash your hands and come with me."

"Read the air of that," she said.

The man looked at it and sat down at the piano. He played it. He didn't play it as an expert pianist would do, but he did play it far better than the average amateur pianist.

"Where did you study? What is your nationality? What is your name?"

"In Germany when I was a kid and my father was a dentist, there. I'm a Massachusetts Yankee. My name is James Cabot Ames. When the war came, father had to leave. I was 15 then. He died right after so I went to work for an uncle—and that's the unromantic but veracious story of my life."

"Do you like plumbing?"

"For one reason, it pays well enough to enable me to keep up some of my studies. I want to be a singer some day."

"Well, Mr. James Cabot Ames, you come much nearer to being a singer now than hundreds who take big money for singing. How would you like to rehearse for an operetta—it looks good and will doubtless make good."

"When and where is that rehearsal, and who are you?"

"I'm Carlotta Carlos."

"As if I didn't know—as if I hadn't heard you sing for years—a few years at any rate, Senorita."

Admits Truth

"I want to hear you sing some more," Carrie said, eyeing him suspiciously.

He did sing, and she selected some difficult numbers. She approved of his singing, she approved of the easy manner in which he handled himself, and she also approved his good looks.

"I am sure I can get a splendid role for you, Mr. Ames," Carrie said. "And I want the truth, are you really a plumber?"

"I am really a plumber—but there's no leak in the pipes here. In fact, I don't even know the owner of this building. But you wouldn't give me a hearing, so I got it this way. I'd rather you'd know it now, and get sore, than drop me after I began rehearsing. I just wanted to show you that it isn't quite fair to turn down a man without giving him a chance."

"I—I thought there was some awkward truckman who thought he could sing. I'm glad you came."

"That makes both of us glad," he said, sincerely.

The following summer Senor Jaime Amasta, in private life Jim Ames, and his bride, the former Senorita Carlos, read newspaper accounts of their marriage. Nearly every paper called it a "stage romance."

"They're wrong," the bride murmured. "It was a kitchen romance, I really fell in love with you when you came in and announced that you had come to fix the water pipes."

CONGRESSMAN OUT TO BEAT WICKERSHAM COMMITTEE

Above picture shows Congressman Horace Walpole Frisby in seven of the three or four disguises he will use to gather information on law enforcement. "What I hope to do," says Frisby, in a phonograph record released yesterday and on sale at leading music stores, "is to beat the Wickersham Committee's report. I realize that the Wickersham Committee has a head start on me. But I have instituted several time-savers which will, I believe, enable me to win. In the first place, I impersonate the various members of my own committee, by skillful make-up and changing the voice. This permits me to merge. Furthermore, I act as my own bodyguard. I shall submit my report to President Hoover, and if he likes it I hope to be appointed to serve as the various fifty-nine fact-finding commissions, that now operate large expense accounts. I will personally visit every speakeasy in the land, and if I discover that prohibition is workable and being enforced, I will not hesitate to say so, without fear or favor."

The Blue Law Fight

There Is Encouragement for Those Favoring a Change in the Earnestness of Pittsburgh Councilmen.

A committee from the City Council will go to Philadelphia Thursday to confer with Philadelphia Council in regard to the campaign for repeal or modification of the Blue Law of 1794.

There is encouragement for those favoring a change in the earnestness of the councilmen. They are well versed in the intricacies of political and legislative procedure. They know what wires must be pulled to get action.

Never before has the movement for a change in our antiquated statute had such powerful support. The councilmen understand and reflect the wishes of their constituents, the people of Pittsburgh.

In other parts of the state no such comprehensive polling of the electorate has been taken on this question as was taken in the two cities. But there is reason to believe that even the rural regions are not so enthusiastic about the Blue Law as some of its supporters would have us suppose.

Certainly there is not a single county in which the law is not habitually violated.

Buses Ousting Trolleys

Street Railways Are Not as Well Adapted to Present Conditions.

Chairman Finley of the Traction Conference Board told City Council yesterday that the Pittsburgh Railways Company is thinking of abandoning one of its Mt. Washington lines and substituting motor buses for the trolleys.

It is not surprising that the company should be contemplating such a change, for it is the trend in many cities both here and abroad. Trolleys have disappeared from the streets of a number of Pennsylvania towns. Even in so large a city as London buses take care of most of the street traffic.

Street railways are not as well adapted to present conditions as buses are. They interfere with the smooth flow of traffic.

The operators of trolley cars are influenced in making the change, however, by earnings, rather than by consideration involving the convenience of the public.

Chairman Finley did not say what fare the company thought of charging for a bus ride on the Mt. Washington route. Certainly a vigorous protest should and doubtless will be forthcoming if it exceeds the trolley fare.

Increase in Robberies

Bandits Who Threaten Life Are Not Entitled to Pity.

The impression gained by even casual reading of the crime reports published daily, that robberies are much more numerous than formerly, is confirmed by Assistant District Attorney Earle R. Jackson.

He remarked, in connection with the presentation of cases to the grand jury yesterday, that three times as many robberies are being committed now as a year ago.

We can pity the starving man who steals a loaf of bread, but the thieves who are terrorizing the community at the present time are not of that character. With few exceptions they give every evidence of being desperadoes and ne'er-do-wells who have taken to crime because they believe they can make it profitable.

Pity is wasted on them. Robbers who threaten life—and virtually all our bandits and highwaymen do—deserve no compassion. They deserve stern punishment.

The 'Popular' Art Award

The People's Judgment, Differing From that of Professional Jury, Is Important.

Once more the people of Pittsburgh have selected as the best picture in the Carnegie Institute's international exhibition of paintings a canvas that was slighted by the jury of award.

By vote of the people the "popular" prize of $200 has been awarded to a painting that was not given honorable mention by the professional jury.

It has always been so. Ever since the popular prize was established the judgment of the people has differed from that of the jury.

The history of the awards indicates that the paintings favored by the jury are such as appeal only to a limited circle of sophisticated artists.

Certainly the people's judgment is important. It may be more important than that of the jury of artists. It may be that the pictures the people like are more likely to endure, more likely to win admiration throughout the ages, than those preferred by the professional jury.

Birds of a Feather

What kind of lizards?

Darrow and Malone defended the monkeys. But forgot to bring their clients into court.

The writer was appointed proxy.

They were opposed to capital nourishment.

But if it is lizards we hope they don't hold a trial over that.

An iguana or a gecko isn't so bad. But we don't like that skink business.

We refuse to believe in either the monkey or lizard theory.

But we are willing to compromise.

NEW STARS

By Archibald Henderson

In ancient times, the cosmos was popularly thought to be immutable. It would have been deemed heretical had anyone suggested the contrary. Stars, once seen, never disappeared. Dark stars were never dreamed of. It was not conceived to be possible that a new star should suddenly appear in the heavens, where none had ever been seen before.

And yet astronomers, since the time of Hipparchus, have from time to time observed in the sky points of light which had either formerly escaped their attention or else suddenly appeared as if from nowhere and out of nothing.

So little had this phenomenon been studied, so comparatively seldom had it been observed, that as late as the time of Tycho Brahe, the appearance of a new star was regarded with wonder and bewilderment. Tycho Brahe, a really great astronomer, was so astounded by this "new" star appearing like a ghost in the firmament that he regarded it as a miracle — "comparable to the standing still of the sun at command of Joshua or the darkness that came upon the earth at the Crucifixion."

Kepler and many other distinguished astronomers observed these new stars, but no adequate study of them was made for a long time. It was believed that these stars were really new creations, of matter, gas or what not, and that after a comparatively brief life they were doomed by their very nature to go out of existence.

Up to the year 1670 A. D., while many new stars had doubtless been observed, there is record of only 13. All these were observed in or near the Milky Way. Early in the last century two were observed, and 1848 witnessed the discovery of still others. With the ushering in of the contemporary era of astronomic photography, the discovery of new stars has not been infrequent. Some 50 have been observed near the Milky Way, and probably more than 100 have been observed in the great nebula of Andromeda and in other spiral nebulae.

All of these have been very faint, of about the eighteenth magnitude, with one noteworthy exception. This is Nova Andromeda, discovered in 1885, which attained a magnitude of 7.5, and within less than a year had totally disappeared, even to the largest telescopes. During this century, aside from a few faint novae, five bright ones have been observed: Nova Persei, in 1901; Nova Geminorum, 1912; Nova Aquilae, 1918; Nova Cygni, 1920, and Nova Pictoris, 1925.

How do astronomers attempt to explain the sudden appearance of these strangers, who enter unbidden our gates? There can be no doubt that the sudden enormous increase in the brightness of a nova must be due to some tremendous cataclysm, far exceeding in magnitude anything we have experienced through actual knowledge. The explanation, given more than 60 years ago, is a shrewd surmise, and deserves to be mentioned: Volcanic forces, perhaps, or the disturbing approach or partial collision of another dark star, had led to the escape of highly heated gases from within; and a chemical combination, after the gases had cooled by sudden expansion, gave rise to the outburst of flame at once very brilliant and of very short duration.

The most plausible of the four possible theories now advanced bases the phenomenon upon the sudden release of energy, probably of a sub-atomic origin, stored up within the star. "This release," says Duncan in his excellent Astronomy, "might be brought about by a body of planetary or smaller dimensions colliding with the star, and the probability of such a collision is much higher than that of a collision of two stars. Such a body would strike the star with terrific velocity and, plunging deep beneath the photosphere, be stopped by the denser layers below. Its kinetic energy would thus be transformed into heat, and a pocket formed in which the temperature would be millions of degrees. This temperature might act as a trigger to release energy from an unknown source within the star, the heated gas would become still hotter and, expanding, would blow off the overlying layers of the star with catastrophic force. With the relief of pressure the temperature would drop again so that the brightness of the star would subside, while the expanding gas would form a nebula of increasing size."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

This line in the ads caught me—"The door was half opened—yet half closed—and he was afraid."

That's life. Always we're facing a door that's half opened and half closed and wondering which side to choose.

Long ago we began that. Began it when we were cave men, peering cautiously from the narrow crevices of our dens. Our caves were cold and we were hungry. There before us lay the jungle. The jungle was like a great door that opened into all we needed. There was food in the jungle and warm furs and riches and a mate. But there was also danger. That was the "closed" side of the jungle door. There were wild beasts in the jungle and hostile tribes and mysterious diseases. The jungle invited—but the jungle also repelled. Should we go in? Or should we stay out? That was the question the jungle put up to us. And a man's test lay in his answer.

Life is a door half opened, half closed. With each new day we meet that challenge afresh. Shall we go in? Shall we stay out? There's the test of the stuff that's in us.

Most of us waste years waiting for life to open its door full. But life never will. The perfect opportunity — the opportunity that carries no risk with it, no inconvenience or pain—never comes. Always the door is half shut as well as half open. Always there are as many reasons against doing a thing as there are reasons for doing it.

And they're excellent reasons—"safe and sane" reasons that will rationalize any cowardice or selfishness or stupidity. If you're really afraid to go in through that half-opened door, you have a thousand alibis—probably applaud them. For we're all cowards at heart.

On the other hand, if you decide to go in, you may not be able to offer one high-proof argument in your defence. And people will boo you and get mad at you, because your courage makes their cowardice seem contemptible.

Well, which are you going to do—go in or stay out? Play it safe or take a chance?

That's the question that faced the caveman. That's the question that is facing you, in the dark, narrow cave of yourself. The caveman that went into the jungle found plenty. But they also paid plenty for finding it. They knew pain, and soon, certain death. But they also knew the thrill and glory of adventure. And they built civilization—although that probably didn't do them much good, being dead. But, at all events, whatever there was they were in the thick of it. And, to some men, that's everything.

And the other cavemen, they chose safety. They passed up the adventures—but they also passed up the risks. And to some men, that's everything.

So there you are, with a door before you. No matter how rich you are or how poor you are, there's always a door before you. Half opened on opportunity. Half closed, against danger. Will you go in—or stay out? It's up to you.

Text for Today Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock: And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house, and it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock.—Matthew, vii: 24, 25.

THINK IT OVER

Drawn by Hal Coffman.

Unless you differ from most, there are times when you envy the racketeer. He has money, excitement and "publicity." He may not live long, but he lives fast. And when his life ends he is likely to have a fine funeral, with a gold-plated coffin, crowds of mourners and tons of floral wreaths.

His days are never humdrum. He is not tied to an office desk or a sales counter. He gets more than $25 a week. You might think that he would be happy—at least happier than you, who perhaps have to punch a time clock and work eight hours a day, six days a week.

There is an old Greek fable about King Damocles, who had everything he wanted, but still was unhappy. The reason he was unhappy was that the Fates had hung a sword over his head, suspended by a single hair.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The most difficult editorial problem of a wideawake magazine is the prevention of plagiarism. In the past year, despite unusual vigil, two completely lifted stories with only titles and a few names changed were on the stands before deception was discovered.

In each case the tales had been paid for. One of them was so expertly written editors required the author to sign an affidavit he had written it from his own original idea. He signed it blithely, and landed in jail. People with a writing itch take unusual chances.

Another ignoble fakery was discovered on a prominent monthly magazine after the periodical was on the press. One-third of the run had been made when the presses were stopped and a quick substitution inserted. It cost the magazine thousands.

The biggest blow of such pirating falls upon struggling and unknown writers. When they turn out a finished and worthy story editors become suspicious and in instances actually refuse to take a chance. Thus only established scriveners may receive a hearing.

Perhaps the most frequently looted plot is that of Poe's "The Gold Bug." It has been printed in various disguises in some 26 magazines. Even today it often shows up in editorial shops as an original piece of literature. De Maupassant's story of the lost necklace has also been overworked by copyists.

There seems no way of stopping lifted yarns. Editors will always be tricked. One man or an entire staff cannot possibly read every story published. This impossibility makes trickery so easy. Often a swiped story will not be discovered until months after printing.

Writers abroad are the most flagrant violators. If they spot a good story in German, French or Polish they pay a few dollars to have it translated into English and post it to an American editor. If they are caught little can be done.

Often writers are unconscious plagiarists. They are struck by some stately verbiage or plot and long afterward it may pop into thought as something original. This is responsible for many honest craftsmen being accused unfairly.

An unusual coincidence in authoring took place in the old McClure's magazine 20 years ago. Two manuscripts arrived the same day—one from Maine and the other from Oregon. Save for two words the opening paragraphs of about 60 words each were identical. Investigation proved they were written exactly the same hour hundreds of miles apart, which is a hair-lifter in thought transference.

There are often touches of the old town pump in the thick of Times Square. An apoplectic auctioneer was yowling in a jewelry shop near Forty-fifth street. As he paused in his red-faced earnestness for a higher bid a dumpy little black-bonneted woman stepped into the door and called out: "Eddie, don't forget the chops on your way home!" He replied quickly: "All right, Ma," and went on with the sale.

* * *

I've been writing "at the top of my voice" for a year about jewelry that turns green in the summer time in Broadway gyp auction parlors. Since that time more than 30 more have opened and all do an increasingly flourishing business. That waning you hear is my influence.

The armor display at the Metropolitan Museum is always well attended. Strangely enough, it is a great attraction for rather timid, slim-shouldered young men who wear horn-rimmed glasses. They like to wander about, dreaming of the days when lances sparked and knights were bold. And go forth no doubt to attack a marshmellow fudge.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

The Wedding Ring

Slim little circlet, so bright and unbroken,
No beginning or ending,
Here, but only a blending
Of past and to be, as in vows of love spoken.

It is narrow and shining
Slim band of gold where all rosy dreams linger!

Infinity's token,
So strong and unbroken,
This is the ring and the symbol of loving!

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Among the bores in most business places are those who upon their arrival in the morning tell of their ailments or are enthusiastic about their hobbies.

Fellow workers are not interested in the number of hours of pain you have experienced since the office closed on the last day of business.

They are not much concerned about your success in competitive sport or that which you have attained in your hobbies.

If your thoughts are divided between your work and your doings in leisure hours you are far from being 100 per cent efficient.

It is disorganizing to a force to have any member of it presenting his personal affairs at a time when the minds of all employes should be centered on the jobs of the day.

There are so many demands for sympathy that people do not care to be annoyed by such demands outside their own family.

Most families have disturbing things, individuals have aches and pains, but the obvious facts have little to interest outsiders.
